WOMAN, SIT DOWN!

Trials of a Courteous Man in a Street Car.

A TRIAL FOR HERESY IN PROSPECT.

He Kicked Over John Wesley—Some Preaching and a Little Politics From the Pharisee.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.

If there is one thing in the daily walk and ride more trying to the equanimity of mankind than another, it is a woman in a street car. That is, the woman who enters late, when the car is full and men have settled themselves to their papers, to chat with their neighbors or to thoughts of pleasure and profit. Of course the late comer must be given a seat. It is part of the rude chivalry of a land which is proud of its women; but only about one female in a drove knows how to accept the courtesy, or warrants that pride.

It is an awkward thing at best for a man to rise, balance himself, smile, catch a strap and lift his hat, all with two hands and two feet. The situation is trying in any event, for the cavalier is performing before an audience composed of the other occupants of the car. He is the observed of the observing, and feels that his fate is in his already occupied hands.

The general run of women plump unsteadily into the recently vacated space, discommoding those on either side of her (because of the natural law which makes woman take up more room on a bench than man), and vouchsafe never a glance, word or token of appreciation. That is bad enough. Successive decades of this snubbing have rendered our masculine cousins of the Eastern seaboard callous in such matters, so that it has become rather the exception than the rule to see a New Yorker on the "L" roads deliver over his vested rights in a seat to a standing woman.

But there is another woman who far outclasses the discourteous one when it comes to making a man feel uncomfortable. This is the coy being who replies to the kindly offer of a seat, "No, I thank you; I prefer to stand." She's a liar from base, and she knows it. She doesn't prefer to stand. She wants to sit down in the worst way, and firmly intends to; but by one of those inexplicable mental crooks which the devil put into the feminine intelligence, she feels it incumbent upon her to say that she wishes to remain erect.

"Oh, no, keep your seat; I'm not going far!" she insists, when the embarrassed man continues in awkward indecision between a return to his seat or a flight to the rear platform. What can he do? He knows perfectly well that that confounded woman wants the seat, but she doesn't take it. He cannot pick her up and jam her down into it, like a pile driver, as he'd like to. So he stands facing her for an awful minute, casting about him for some means of extrication. He feels as dangerous as a man standing up in a rowboat. She simpers, bridles, wiggles, and then goes down in a heap where she always expected to land. Unless he is dowered with the assurance of a locomotive, he hurriedly deploys upon the street and takes the next car, feeling as if he had been kicked for his pains.

May the good fortune deliver us all from the female person who prefers to stand.

It has been some time since this city has had a good, spicy clerical scandal, or a hard-fought trial for heresy, but there is a little something in the latter line of excitement liable to develop at any moment. Already the wind from the wagging of many tongues comes to the ear, laden with the first sounds of schism and skirmish. The Rev. R. Harcourt, D. D., pastor of the Howard Street Methodist Episcopal Church is the pulpiteer who is getting involved.

Dr. Harcourt is a live man. He is a rustler. His congregation is almost overflow. He speaks upon topics which frequently require some daring, and, at times, he is thrillingly sensational. Beyond this, he is not above resorting to the ways of Worldly Wise Man for rodeoing mavericks into the dim lit religious corral. I remember very well being taken in an while about to enter the Haight street baseball grounds one sunny Sabbath day, and having thrust into my hand by a distributor something which I at first supposed was a score card, but which turned out to be a "Pocket Fire Alarm," giving a list of all the boxes in the city, and at the same time offering a few hints as to how the annoying caloric of the world to come could best be avoided.

On this card was a picture of Dr. Harcourt, and a full, explicit, and complete advertisement of his church. It was offered with the compliments of the Workers' Christian Union, and I carry it to this day as a valuable aid in directing my erring feet toward mundane blazes which are easily quenched. This gives you an idea of the good doctor's practical methods of advertising the wares which he has to offer. Of course, I followed that card to church, there being no other alarm ringing in my ears at the time, and, of course, I found Dr. Harcourt a brainy, earnest, entertaining man.

But that is neither here nor there. Dr. Harcourt has offended some of his parishoners, and they are up against him with all that spiteful vigor which seems to become so well the ordinary run of one-day-in-the-week worshipers. Not that he neglects his parish work—few more active than he. Not that he turns a deaf ear to the cry of the needy—he gives and makes others give. Not that he doesn't draw well—I have said that his hearers taxed the capacity of his dispensary of gospel truths. But that he has dared to get out of the rut.

Dr. Harcourt has kicked over John Wesley! He has had the hardihood to affirm his belief that the doctrines of that great teacher do not fit all the dips, spurs, and angles of the needs of today. In short, he has put down the great founder of Methodism as a back number, the pages of which are instructive and full of incentives to thought and action, but which need not necessarily be used as a modern guide book in pursuing the way which seemeth best toward the wicket of elysium.

This heresy has of course shocked the religious sensibilities of those who have been brought up to regard Wesley's teachings as not for a day but for all time—immutable, infallible, never to be questioned. So they hem and haw and shake their heads, and there is at least a possibility of another trial before the conference, with another man who has dared to think, told that his cranial development is too large to be compassed by an orthodox hat. Perhaps, however, Brother Harcourt, who is a man of resources, may put oil on the water and weather the storm.

A jump from pulpit to politics may be like the descent of Lucifer, but—"do you know who will be the Republican candidate for State Treasurer?" asked one of my positive acquaintances, who had just come in off the road. I was compelled to confess an ignorance as dense as if he had asked me "What's become of Sam Osborne?"

"Dan Cole!" was the sententious reply.

"Who in thunder is Dan—— What! Not Dan Cole of the Mountain House?" I interjected, recalling a trip of years agone, up the grade from Goodyear's Bar toward Nigger Tent.

"That's the man. He's been in every Republican State Convention for the last twenty-six years. He's a sort of controlling influence up there in the Sierra Nevada and that group of counties. He's a straightforward, go-ahead worker, and he's never asked the first thing of the party. Now he's out for State Treasurer, and I believe he'll get it."

But is he a man who can afford the canvass?" I asked, my mind reverting to a tall, gray bearded, hearty man, the proprietor of a mountain stage line and of a wayside inn, which just barely clung to the mountain steep with the road ever threatening to crowd it over into the abyss.

"Oh, bless you, Cole has at least $200,000 in property here in San Francisco beside his big interests elsewhere. By the way, he's a member of the Bohemian Club; something of which few people would suspect a man who lives most of his days in the lonesome heart of the hills. He's a rare good fellow, and deserves all the honor he asks."

It may be of interest to you people of Oakland to know that Dan Cole, of whom my bustling friend thinks so highly, is a brother of L. G. Cole, one your best known citizens.

THE PHARISEE.

A HARD WINTER.

The High Prices Charged by a Weaverville Hotel.

Del Norte Record.

The Trinity Journal is complaining of the severity of the winter in that section. It reports twenty feet of snow on Trinity Mountain, between Weaverville and Shasta, and no mail connection between the two places. This reminds us of the last winter we spent in Weaverville, that of '52 and '53. Wonder if the editor of the Journal was there? We were then snowed in for a long time, provisions ran short and we were almost reduced to beef straight. The hotels were charging $2 a meal, and then we were allowanced on bread. About one meal a day was all we could afford, and we then worked hard to get our money's worth. That was the hardest winter we ever experienced in California.

London Ladies in the Pantomime.

Chicago News.

The five society ladies who do the pretty dance between scenes in Cinderella, in London, are swells of the first water. "The five swagger ladies" they are called here. Consumed with vanity, the prepossessing paranoiacs paid £100 each for the privilege of participating in the pantomime. The muslins, the laces, and the diamonds they wear, are marvels of beauty. Of course they are highly popular with the rest of the company, for the reason that they disburse their wealth lavishly. While the piece was in rehearsal, these silly women provided luncheons for their associates every day, and there was champagne by the case after each night's performance. One of these curious paranoics has an annuity of £30,000!

A Jilted Princess.

New York Tribune.

Princess Victoria of Prussia has obtained the permission of her brother, Emperor William, to reside permanently in England, and he has granted her an allowance of $40,000 a year. Germany has become distasteful to the Princess since the abrupt termination of her engagement to Prince Alexander of Battenberg, who coolly jilted her in order to marry the opera singer, Marie Loosinger.

THE NAVY.

The Rehabilitation of a Neglected Service.

BLOCKADE ON THE PROMOTION LINE.

The Defective Methods in Operation—The Need of Some New Test of Efficiency.

After a long period of service in vessels of antiquated type, carrying popgun armaments that made the entire establishment ridiculous, the officers of the navy are greatly encouraged and elated over the disposition manifested at present by the people to build modern ships and rehabilitate the service. It is now a well known fact that, in doing their duty afloat, upholding as best they could the dignity and honor of their country in foreign waters, they were subject to both the open ridicule of their countrymen at home and the sneers or insincere commiseration of foreigners. The good reputation of the officers, as a body, for intelligence and capacity, is not without foundation, and the belief is generally entertained among non-professional people that, by supplying the naval service with the best modern ships and guns, it will at once become efficient, and we will again occupy our proper position among the established naval powers of the world. This belief is founded in error, and unless radical changes are made in the personnel, the mere advent of modern ships, machinery, and war apparatus will fail to realize the hope of the people. The neglect of this important matter can only result in disappointment to both the country and the service—a disappointment that will certainly be vexatious and may be bitter and humiliating.

This statement involves no unfavorable reflection upon the officers, either individually or collectively, as they are not responsible for the system by which their advancement and assignment to rank and duty is regulated. The present bad conditions, which are daily becoming more intense, are the result of a system which has nothing in reason to commend it; a system which would paralyze or bankrupt any private establishment, and which, it is safe to say, will never be practiced by the navy of any country where naval matters are made a serious business and not an aimless diversion.

The case will probably be better understood by a brief statement of the salient and undisputed facts. In a theoretically perfect military organization we would find the officers occupying successive grades of responsibility and command, from the lowest subordinate to the chief who controls all. We would find the officers in the successive higher grades decreasing in number as their field of duty and supervision enlarged. We should further expect to find broader experience and increased intelligence as we ascended the scale, and the age and other physical conditions would harmonize with the duties required. Particularly in a navy should the subordinates be young, healthy and vigorous men of pronounced activity and energy, capable at any time of continued effort, without exhaustion. The commanding officers should, without exception, be men in the prime of their physical and mental activity, of trustworthy intelligence to meet any important issue abroad, and having that interest and pride in their position, which is a constant motive to energy in themselves, and which compels energy in others. The flag officers should have the same characteristics, tempered by profounder judgment and ripened by experience. All this, of course, is only theory, but practice should approximate as nearly as possible to such a standard.

Now, the methods in operation in our service are such as to render any near approach to these requirements impossible. The principal item which thus baulks efficiency is the tacit assumption that every person in the subordinate grades is entitled to advance onward and occupy the highest possible position. There is no disqualification other than failure to pass an easy written examination, or the commission of crime. It is no part of the discussion at present to ascertain whether this is right or wrong, reasonable or unreasonable, just or unjust, as regards the individual. Whatever view may be taken of that question, there is but one conclusion to be reached as to the effect which the system has upon the efficiency of the service. It is decidedly unjust to the country, however charitable or just it may be to individuals. Since the number of officers in the superior grades is necessarily few as compared with the subordinates, we have the entire list pressing in single file one behind the other waiting for their turns, like a line of people at a ticket office or a narrow gateway through which only a few can pass at a time. They bank up in age so rapidly while waiting, that the evil consequences cannot be overstated. The age at which officers now reach the grade of commander is yearly increasing, and soon (about the year 1902) no man will become a commander under 52 years of age. Let us examine the picture of a naval service under such conditions and note the details.

Ninety-nine men out of every hundred, when over fifty years of age, have seen their best days physically, and are on the downhill side of life. If they have never had the responsibilities of command before, they will certainly lack that confidence and promptness of action which is expected of a naval commander, and which are characteristic of young and middle-aged men. Just at this epoch, too, will the "new navy," with the new material and new methods begin to replace the simple old regime. It is not too much to say that such men will be wholly unfitted for the task. Nor can they become efficient by experience, for experience they cannot get. They cannot obtain experience in command because they will then advance through four grades in ten years. They will probably go through the two grades of commander and captain in less than six years, and it will be impossible in this time to give more than one and a half years of command to each officer before promotion to flag-rank. It is safe to say that many will not have a year, and some may have none; and the service, of whatever length, will probably be limited to one vessel only. To be a thoroughly efficient and capable commanding or flag officer, experience in command should embrace service on as many types of ship as possible.

What motive and spirit will actuate these commanders at this time? It is condemning no person, but simply taking account of the weakness of human nature to say that at their age and with the knowledge that their time in command is so short, they will be simply looking for relief, and cannot possibly take that interest in their duties which would ensue if they knew their first command was only a probation to ascertain their fitness for another. Vanity is a part of our composition and no one will manifest his full energies unless he takes pride in his position and occupation. The place that a man covets at 35 or 40, and which at that age would incite his best efforts, is apt to become a sort of dead-sea fruit if not attained until 52. Another ridiculous feature connected with the system is, that after 34 years of active service, and after 50 years of age, an officer will be subjected to formal examinations, as necessary to four promotions, in an interval of less than ten years.

Look next to the subordinates under these conditions, doing duty as executives, navigators, and watch officers; their ages running beyond the thirties, through the forties, and touching the fifties. They are expected, of course, to be wide awake and energetic, to display pride and zeal, and in all ways to enhance the good reputation of the ship and the service. Are they apathetic? Do they complain and grumble? Do they feel dissatisfied and express their dissatisfaction? Do they dislike to go to sea? Do they strive to remain on shore? How very unnatural and wrong! They should, of course, do their whole duty at all times regardless of any personal consideration! Seriously, can any reasonable person expect good results under such a system? Is it not high time, and is it not an excellent time with the putting forth of a new fleet, to adopt some reasonable modern scheme, to ensure, at all times, capacity and zeal in every grade of the service. In doing so, we would not be experimenting with untried method, but would be adopting the practice which obtains abroad, the practice that naturally is followed in every systematic business house, and we would be putting our officers upon an equal footing of proper pride and dignity with their equals whom they constantly meet in foreign service.

No one complains that officers in high grades do not die off more rapidly. But, since it is found that the natural death rate is not adequate to keep the executive body young, vigorous and efficient, is the body to languish, the service to suffer and the country be imperilled merely in order that no individual shall fall of the highest reward?

It is true that to correct this wrong some individual must suffer; and in the regular working of any improved system others will continue to suffer. But the navy does not exist for the benefit of those who happen to be its officers, and they should be prepared to see the efficiency increased even if it involves sacrifice.

It is beyond question that there should be a limiting age to some of the grades, particularly below commander. Commanders should take that grade at no age over forty. Many officers are capable of doing satisfactory service in a subordinate capacity, who would make but indifferent or inefficient, commanders; and, since the number must be reduced, in passing to the higher grades it would seem that the cutting-out process should be freely exercised in the lower grades. With a strict age limit below the grade of commander, and with the knowledge on the part of all subordinates, that those who fall behind their fellows in zeal, efficiency, or sea service would be left for age retirement, we would have a very different picture of naval organization. There would be a hustling everywhere, which, while it might disturb the ease hitherto enjoyed, would at once indicate that new life had taken possession of the dry bones.

Since, to take all into the higher grades involves a retardation stifling to the life of the service, and since we don't need all, and since we do need in those grades the highest efficiency and intelligence that can be obtained, let us secure it by passing over the least efficient before they reach the position of Commander. Mere written examinations are not an adequate test. The man can and should make his record in the subordinate grades and prove by tangible results his worthiness to be advanced.

Under the present system there is practically no stimulus or incentive to effort. He who is the most indifferent to duty, he who is constantly seeking his personal comfort, he who impedes the work of the detail office, he who shirks sea service, all or any of these are as certain of rising to the highest honors as is the most faithful and energetic. And nothing that anyone can do, and nothing that anyone may fail to do short of the most distinguished or grave matters, can accelerate or retard by a single degree, the listless, drifting progress toward promotion.

How different would be the picture if all subordinates realized that no laggard would be advanced. Not only would the young officer improve every opportunity which chance might throw in his way, but he would be vigilant in searching for and making his own opportunities. To add to his good record and make it distinguished would be the certain and only way of making his election sure. There would be failures and disappointments, of course. All could not be promoted, and some, even, might fail without fault, through lack of opportunity or other cause, and would be left to retire by age. Such cases would be hard, and would excite sympathy. They would be just as hard and just as trying, but no more so, than the similar failures that occur in every profession at all times. But the service would not be a failure.

It is well known that the rapid promotion during the war of the rebellion made necessary by the many resignations, has increased the evil which naturally pertains to the system; and it is a common error to assert and believe that the effect due to this cause will cease when the officers who served through that war shall have passed from the active list. Such is not the case. A moment's reflection will convince any one that the sudden irregular movement which then took place, initiated a series of alternate periods of rapid promotion and slow promotion which will manifest itself through many future naval generations; and which can disappear only slowly and gradually, like successive waves when water has been suddenly agitated. The same cycles of stagnation will return again and again. Now, the system should be corrected; for in the first place, promotion is entirely too slow, even when unaffected by any retarding cause, and, secondly, we should abandon a system that is ever subject to such irregularities, and adopt one which cannot be thus affected by any disturbance.

A word about the bad results of permitting the navy to decline. It is not merely the decay and lack of material which we have to deplore, it is the more serious loss of capacity and efficiency in the officers themselves. Without service and practice with modern implements, they cannot operate them as they ought, when they are put in their hands. As preparation and training for service on first-class modern men-of-war, the service our officers have performed during the past twenty years with the antique material, has been of very little practical use. They might almost as well have done no service at all. An ex-officer, who left the service as a young man, some thirteen years ago, and who has kept up his interest in naval affairs, said truly, that his comrades who remained in the service, had learned nothing since he left, and that he could to-day go on board a modern ship, and encounter but little, if any more, difficulty in taking hold of duty than would those who had never left the servic.

The same line of reasoning should be decisive in the discussion now going on as to the propriety or necessity of the United States building any first-class line-of-battle ships. That is to say, apart from all other considerations, since these vessels are a recognized military implement of modern times, our officers should be accomplished in their use; and this they never can be unless they have them to use.

IN FLAGRANTE DELICTO.

The Instantaneous Camera Fiend's Brazen Cheek.

Indianapolis News.

Very proud are some of our photomaniacs of their most audacious exploits. A friend of mine was driving with his young wife in Central Park. The lady began to pout about something or other. Her spouse put his arm about her and tried to soothe her. A voice was now heard from the shrubbery. It belonged to an instantaneous camera fiend. "Just a moment," it said; "don't move."

The husband and wife separated instantaneously, by mutual consent, for they had no marriage certificate on view.

"Oh, no; that pose was perfect," exclaimed the amateur photographer. "Just do it once more. This one looks more like a divorce pose than anything else."

"Confound your impudence," the husband cried.

"But this is a new process, and I will reserve the first print for you. Come, now, be reasonable."

The recently wedded pair gasped, but, in the end, allowed themselves to be grouped as the highwayman desired.

"That's it, now," he directed, "Head raised. Put your arm a little more around the lady's waist. Keep your hands out of sight, or they'll take up the whole picture. Put your head down on his shoulder, madam, just as you had it before. What? Did you say anything?"

Valiantly breaking away, she responded, "I won't."

"After all my trouble," he pleaded.

She acquiesced. Perhaps vanity impelled her. Anyhow, the stranger was a man of veracity as well as audacity, for he subsequently sent a copy of the picture to the waylaid pair.

Bring on the Millenium.

New York Tribune.

The Congregational ministers of Hampden county, Mass., have united in a declaration against the building of a navy for offensive warfare, on the ground that it would be "likely to be considered as a policy of defiance rather than of defense, is a departure from the established principles of the republic; a menace to the peace of nations; a detriment to the true glory of our country and a project opposed to sound political and financial morality." Until all the strongest nations of the world arrive at the same way of thinking, we are afraid the peaceful bill of the Hampden county clergyman will not pass on a second reading.

RUM IN THE SOUP.

How Another Good Man Went Wrong.

BETRAYED BY A DEPRAVED SHEARS.

The Wicked Cookery Book—Intoxicating Mutton Hash—Dickie's Nice Language.

The wicked cookery book has been playing its depraved pranks again. Some time ago it was the undoing of the excellent Brother McCrary of the Christian Advocate and now it has got the shepherd, who has herded The Pacific with a shears, into a parlous predicament. To him the Rev. R. Henry Davis writes:

Judge of my surprise today, when, as my eyes were running over this "Household" column in your issue of January 29, I found it recommended that "one glass of sherry" be added to the haricot of mutton; and then, as my eyes ran on down the column, my heart sunk within me, when I read the very next article, "Tapioca Soup," where the cook is told to "put in what additional seasoning your taste demands, with a glass of wine."

Oh, dear! the intoxicating mutton hash and the crapulous tapioca soup. Shall the Demon Rum be permitted to disguise himself with mutton, or the insinuating but treacherous tapioca? Look not on the mutton haricot when it is red for it biteth like an adder, and, as Mr. Davis explains, "foods prepared with 'wines' create an appetite for wine and other liquors that may, and in some cases will, lead to drunkenness, then the drunkard's grave, and finally to hell."

Indeed, Mr. Davis does not know what to make of it, and suggests, with painful levity, that "may be the devil got into the compositors' room while they were out at lunch, and thought he would add some flavor to the bill of fare. But account for it how I may, yet there it is, the vile stuff, in the broth, and mixed up with my mutton—and I wish it wasn't."

The form of the old common law indictment for perjury ran that John Doe, "not having the fear of God in his heart and instigated thereto by the devil, did, etc.," but it was never held necessary to prove to the satisfaction of the jury the instigation by the devil of the act of perjury. That was assumed, but was not counted an extenuating circumstance, as it seems to Mr. Davis. It is a proverb that God sent meat, but the devil sends cooks and I think he sends the cook books besides to lie in wait for the unwary shears of the righteous. He (the editor, not the devil) sees his fault now and he apologizes with better zeal than grammar, thus:

Our brother's protest is right. His objection is well made. The "wine" got in print without our knowledge. We are even more chagrined because of a similar notice which slipped in only a few weeks before and for which we apologized.

Yet ever before his guilty eyes will hover the dreadful spectre of the man who began by getting drunk on mutton hash and ended in a drunkard's grave.

I am not surprised at the brother's humility, for these Prohibitionaries are tremendous fellows when they get started. The Hon. Samuel Dickie, National Chairman of the Prohibition Party, for example, invited the world at large, the other day, to agree in his opinion that President Harrison is an arrant hypocrite and Vice-President Morton a low down saloon keeper. Charming way to speak of the first and second men in the country. The consciousness of being right gives a man a great advantage in the use of language, and scolding is always more satisfying—to the scold—than argument.

I can honestly recommend to my brethren of the religious press, whose unregenerate shears play them such accursed tricks, a little book by Mrs. Julia McNair Wright, from which they may make extracts with a contented mind and a secure conscience. It is entitled "The Temperance First Reader," and here is Lesson I:

I see a boy. Do you see the boy run? He has a cup. It is a tin cup. Is it a new cup? Yes. It is a new, red tin cup. May the boy put ale in his cup? No. The ale is bad for the boy. May the boy put ale in his cup for the old man? No. The ale is bad for the old man too. The boy may put tea in his cup for the old man. The old man is ill. Let the boy run to the old man. Let him get tea in the new cup for the old man.

Imagine the old man drinking tea out of a tin cup painted red. No wonder he felt ill. Lesson IV shows a picture of a boy about 3 years old, who is understood to say:

I see an old man. Old man, why do you lie in the mud? Why do you not get up and go to bed? Old man, are you ill? I see a jug by the old man. He has had rum in his jug. Now I see why he is ill. Yes, he is ill, and he cannot get up. Old man, let us try and aid you to get up. Let us aid the old man to go to his own bed. Old man, do not use rum.

Old man do not "use rum" in your mutton hash. Old man beware of the raging tapioca soup. Profit by the ripe experience of three years and let me put you to bed.

The same author characterized by an appreciative critic as "a careful and brilliant writer," publishes another book entitled, "Temperance Arithmetic," which is quite as safe a pasture for the sanctified shears as the other. In proof, I offer a highly moral example:

On Monday, James spent 10 cents for cigars; on Tuesday, 5 cents for beer; on Wednesday, 15 cents for egg-nog; on Thursday, 10 cents for ale. What did he spend for all?

On Friday, was he any better off for what he had spent?

Peter, who went out with James, bought a straw hat for 20 cents and a pocket-book for 20 cents. What did he give for both?

What did he have on Friday to show for his money?

You will observe that Peter accompanied James, but the matter is left in painful doubt whether James treated Peter, or did he drink all that rum himself. I call it rum because you ought to know that beer is rum, and ale is rum, and egg nog is rum, and cigars are rum. Anything the prohibitionary does not like is rum.

Let me not be misunderstood. I regard the teaching of temperance as nearly the most important part of the public school course, but you cannot do it by cramming them with fool stuff of this sort, which even the most childish intellect can see is nonsense. Suppose Peter had spent 15 cents on candy. What would he have had on Friday to show for his money? Shall there be no more cakes because there is no more ale? If you have ever told a story to a little boy, you know that he will ask questions at every turn, and some of them will be of the most unexpected sort, most difficult to answer truthfully and intelligibly. Suppose you commit yourself to the principle that it is wrong to buy anything for immediate consumption, you will find some very awkward questions poked at you. Besides if you tell that double-barrelled story about Peter and James to an ordinary flesh and blood boy, he will be sure to admire James who bought rum, more than Peter who bought a hat, in spite of the moral tag with which the story is provided. What does a boy care about tomorrow? Has he any respect for his hat? Did you ever see him throw it in the mud?

They tell a good story about old Zack Chandler, of Michigan, and an incident of his last political campaign, which was made for Garfield in Ohio. He was not pleased at the way he was used. At Akron, some man, without the fear of God in his heart, stole his new Detroit hat and left him a battered one of straw. At Tiffin, another wretch stole his gold-headed cane, which he had carried continuously since 1857. This was bad enough, but at Cleveland he fell into disgrace. Red Ribbon Reynolds had been there, all the bums had been converted to temperance, and every person in the hall wore a red ribbon in his button-hole. He made notes, thinking to say a few words about the evils of intemperance, and to saddle the opposition with the rum vote. Some fool opened the window at his back, and, as a result, the notes fluttered down among the audience. He had begun his temperance introduction and was intensely annoyed at the interruption. Thrusting his hand into his pocket he pulled out something to hold his notes to the desk. There was a snicker all round, which developed into a roar. He thought something was wrong with his clothing, but an attempt to ascertain only intensified the merriment. At last, as he was about to beat a hasty exit, his eye took in the paper weight—a mammoth corkscrew.

Once more the rum was in the soup. Corkscrews are rum.

EDWARD F. CAHILL.

THE JANITOR'S REASON.

Why the Courts Remained Closed on Washington's Birthday.

Stockton Mail.

"Hellow! What's this?" ejaculated an individual who wanted to enter the Superior Court room today, but found the door locked.

"You can't get in," said the janitor, who chanced to be in the hallway.

"Why—why, what does all this mean? Door closed, hey?"

"Certainly."

"What's up?"

"This is Washington's birthday."

"The deuce it is! Well, well—yes, I reckon you're right. But, see here: I'd like to know why the courts can't run on Washington's birthday as well as any other time."

The janitor dropped his dustpan, put his arms akimbo, and replied with a good deal of asperity;

"You blamed idiot! Think we're going to allow these lawyers to talk on the birthday of the man who couldn't tell a lie? No, siree! This is the one day above all others that lawyers have got to be repressed on."

An Old Swiss Preliminary to Divorce.

Chicago News.

Until within a few years a curious custom has obtained in Switzerland. When husband and wife expressed a desire for a divorce they were required to enter a room and live therein together for a fortnight, during which time they were neither to see nor to converse with anybody else; their food was passed to them through a narrow opening in the wall, and all communication with the outside world was shut off. If, at the end of a fortnight of this confinement together, the couple still clamored for divorce, it was granted without further ado.

Which Kind Is in Your Pocket.

Washington Star.

"As to the buzzard on the dollar piece," said Director Leech, "I would certainly like to see that changed for a more heroic bird, with his head higher in the air. We have, at the mint in Philadelphia, the stuffed figure of an eagle that used to fly around the building, which would serve as a good model. Do you know we had to take a feather out of the tail of the bird on the dollar? After we had struck off a couple of million pieces we found there were eight feathers in his tail, when there should have been but seven."

A Promise of Amendment.

New York Sun.

"I observe with regret, George," said George's father, "that you are still at the foot of your class. Is there no prospect of your doing better?"

"Oh, yes, father; I expect to be second or third in the next class below next term."

A Slight Difference.

New York Sun.

Bronson—See here, Cadley, did you tell Smithers I was the meanest white man that ever lived?

Cadley—No, I didn't draw the color line.

ENGLAND'S MEN-OF-WAR.

Their Speed Inferior to That of Uncle Sam's.

New York Tribune.

One marked result of the recent manoeuvres of the British naval squadron was that it directed attention to the unsatisfactory speeds attained by the newer vessels. The new armored ships showed a falling off of speed that caused the owners, the taxpayers, who had paid immense prices for the new warships, ships in which they had been led to place the utmost confidence as a fighting force, to feel that they had been deceived as to the actual value of their investments. Of the eighteen new armored ships there was a falling of the actual speed made at sea from that made on the trial of 20 per cent or more. The following half-dozen instances taken from the official report of about forty ships will give an idea of the others, and gives an idea of what the Admiralty may expect to get out of the new battleships when they are steaming continuously at sea, as compared with what they may make on the trials:

Vessel.	When built.	Speed on trial.	Act'l speed at sea.
Immortalite	1887	18.50	14.40
Galatea	1887	18.50	14.40
Warspite	1884	16.75	14.29
Hero	1885	15.50	11.90
Conqueror	1881	15.50	12.00
Colossus	1882	15.10	11.90
Rodney	1881	16.75	14.00

Cruisers also showed a similar falling off in speed. As it is only the effective speed that counts, the Admiralty feel quite uneasy over the bad showing and are apprehensive lest the ships now building will not fulfil the promises of their designers any more then the ships which are now completed. And what makes them feel worse about it is the fact the warships of other nations, notably the United States war vessels, do not fall off in the same fatal proportions as do their ships. For instances, the Italian battleship Italia was intended to be, and is officially described as a 17. 8-knot ship, yet it is only a few weeks ago that, during continuous steaming at sea, she made 18.2 knots, and without a breakdown.

If the reports of the speed of the English vessels during their recent manoeuvres are to be depended upon, the English Navy does not possess a battle-ship to-day that could get anywhere near the Italia; and even the belted cruisers, which are 18 1-2 knot vessels, on paper, would be left behind at the rate of more than a knot an hour, even under forced draft. And forced draft has proven so destructive to boilers that it will only be used for brief periods and upon great emergencies. But the Admiralty has great hopes of better things from the battleships Blake and Vulcan, of twenty-two and twenty knots estimated speed respectively, and from five 19-knot protected cruisers recently launched.

The Naval vessels of the United States have not exhibited the falling off in the speed that those of the English Navy have, and this is partially accounted for in the fact that the practice of the Navy Department in conducting trials has been, as a rule, superior to that of England. The Admiralty have the official trials over a measured mile course, while in this country the practice is to have a continuous run of four hours. Even a novice can readily see that to run over a single mile course the conditions may be made more favorable; the fires may be got up in the best possible condition, the steam may be bottled up, all the parts of the machinery are in the best state of lubrication, and during the three or four minutes' run there need be no cold water run into the boiler to make up the small loss that passes off in the condition of steam; the fires will need no handling nor be deadened by putting on fresh coal, and there is very little chance of the journals becoming heated.

But with a four-hour run, as the United States naval vessels are tested, the conditions are naturally changed. The water in the boilers is likely to be entirely changed, thus losing much heat while getting the colder water up to a boiling point, and the fires will be recoaled several times. Hence the precentage of loss of speed, under continuous steaming, as compared with that made on the official trial, it is not so great with the United States vessels as it is with those of the English Navy, which fact must be apparent. And still the practice in this country is not declared to be perfect, but would seem to be nearer the correct thing if the trials were like those made during and for several years after the Civil War—for twenty-four hours at sea; or like that which the Dolphin made.

Orchard Planting—What the Farmers are Doing in Eden Township—General Notes.

Eden Township Farmers.
Haywards Journal.

All the farmers are now making up for lost time, and a large amount of territory has been cut up this week. Seeding is, also, well advanced, considering the backwardness of the season, and with a couple of weeks' good weather, the farmers will be O. K.

Fully 700 acres have been plowed on the Meek ranch, and about 500 acres seeded, up to date.

At the Foot of Broadway.
Haywards Journal.

We happened to meet George C. Fabens of Alameda, in Oakland Saturday, and in a talk about the new depot at the corner of First and Broadway, he informed us that the Southern Pacific company had decided to erect one as soon as the weather settled. Owing to the company having its hands full with the snow blockade on the Sierras and on the Oregon road, it has about all it can attend to at present.

The Municipal Government Law.
Haywards Journal

We believe that a large majority of the people of this place are in favor of substituting the general law, known as the County Government Bill, for our present charter. The full scope of the law governing towns of the sixth class, under which Haywards comes, has been clearly set forth, and it is hardly necessary for us to speak further on the subject. A petition signed by a majority of our voters was presented to the Board of Trustees on Wednesday evening, asking the board to call an election and have the sentiment of the people on the subject.

Orchard Planting.
Haywards Journal.

The most extensive orchard planting in this vicinity this spring has been on the Meek ranch. One almond orchard of about 80 acres has lately been planted back of the reservoir, just beyond town, near the road leading to Decoto. About 5,000 trees were set out. Another big orchard, containing 125 acres, will soon be planted on the depot road, taking in about half of the large field on the right as you go to the depot. The variety and number of trees will be as follows: 2,000 pear trees, 4,000 apricot trees, 1,500 cherries, 4,000 prune trees and about 1,000 plum trees.

San Lorenzo Conundrums.
Hayward's Journal.

San Lorenzo needs a village hall, reading room and lodge room. Why not then re-model the large fruit drying building for these purposes? As it now stands, owned as it is by the leading citizens of the community, a continual bill of expense for taxes and rapidly going to ruin for lack of paint and repairs, would it not be a good idea to put it to the above suggested use, and thus provide a place for our boys away from constant temptation? What would hinder using the upper story for a gymnasium? Think this over, ye stockholders of the San Lorenzo Fruit Preserving Company, before you are called on for another assessment. Are not the characters of our young men worth preserving? What have we done for them? What can we do?

MOUNT EDEN RIFLE CLUB.

Scores Made at the Meeting of Last Sunday.
Haywards Journal.

The regular monthly shoot of the M. E. R. C., came off last Sunday, and was well attended. The gold and silver medals were hotly contested for, and, judging from the score, some remarkably good shooting was done. One new member was also enrolled. Before the shoot, the gallant Captain of the Club, Frank Dennis, was presented with a handsome badge of office, and we think this must have spurred him to show the club that he was worthy of it, because after the shoot, he turned out to be the winner of the gold medal. The silver or second-class medal was won by Robert Knudsen, of Haywards. The official score:—First Class.—George Obermuller 36, Frank Dennis 43, John Obermuller 39, Peter Peters 33, W. Johnson 30, Chris Beck 38, Chris Gading 37, Con Beck 33, H. M. Fedderson 34. Second Class—August Johnson 28, Ed. Guy 19, Fred Olsen 5, H. G. Alberts 30, Robert Knudsen 37, Charles Heyer 15, Otto Guy 36, B. W. Dntcher (new member) 37.

S. M. WORTHINGTON.

His Sudden Death While Sitting in His Chair.
Haywards Journal.

The sudden death of S. M. Worthington, Sunday evening about nine o'clock, at his home on B avenue, was a great shock to all his friends in this place. He was taken down with la grippe a month or so ago and the disease left him in a very weak condition. He has, however, been able to drive about most of the time, but he really never recovered from his illness, and when the final summons came he was seated in his arm chair, surrounded by his wife, daughter and son-in-law, and before they all realized it his spirit had departed. The deceased was a native of Hebron, New York, and came to California across the plains, and arrived in Haywards in 1852, and has remained a resident of this place ever since. He leaves a wife, son and daughter, besides two sisters in Michigan. The deceased was not a member of any secret society. He was one of the first organizers of the Congregational church at this place and has been one of its officers since its commencement.

LESTER BAXTER.

Death of an Old Resident of Haywards.
Haywards Journal.

Lester Baxter, one of our oldest and most highly respected citizens, peacefully passed away Saturday last, after a protracted illness, at the ripe old age of 84 years and 6 months. He was born in Dunham, Canada, of American parents, August 29, 1805. His grandfather distinguished himself in the Revolutionary war, serving with great gallantry at the head of a company of militia. His parents then moved to Rouse's Point, near Lake Champlain, in the northern part of New York, when deceased was about eleven years old, and remained there until 1850. They next made their home in Morris county, New Jersey, and in May, 1850, departed by way of the Isthmus for California. He first located in Redwood canyon, taking up 160 acres. He remained in the Redwoods until 1868, when he sold his land and purchased property in Haywards, upon which he has since resided. He was a carpenter by trade, and was at one time at the head of the largest cooper factory in New York state. He was married January 20, 1830, to Miss Betsy Gilbert, in New York state, and four children survive him, viz.: Mrs. A. R. Hall, Mrs. E. D. Brown, George C. Baxter, and Lee Baxter. His wife died at this place on July 4, 1878. The funeral took place Monday, services being held at the house, Rev. W. W. Madge officiating. Many handsome floral tributes covered the casket. The remains were buried in San Lorenzo Cemetery.

Old Santa Claus, Who Found the Medal, Sent to Jail for Sixty Days for Petit Larceny.

The revival services conducted by Mrs. L. O. Robinson of Indianapolis, Ind., will commence tomorrow morning in the Park Street Methodist Church.

A young man named Fix was found at two o'clock this morning in the hennery which stands in the rear of the Loyal Oak Hotel on Park street, and was placed under arrest by Fred K. Krauth, Jr., and Harry Blunt.

Edward Page, the old man who found a medal and refused to give it to the owner, because he was not satisfied with the reward, was found guilty of petty larceny yesterday, and sentenced to serve sixty days in the County Jail.

F. K. Krauth appeared before the Board of Health last evening and complained of the nuisance caused by the chicken yard and pig pen on the premises of Mrs. Appel, on Eagle avenue near Everett street. The Board decided to take steps to have the same declared a nuisance.

A Chinese vegetable peddler who caused Mrs. R. S. Farrell on Pacific avenue to become alarmed because of the rough manner in which he endeavored to collect a bill from her which he claimed was due him, was acquitted yesterday by a jury of the charge of disturbing the peace.

Mrs. Harvey, who recently created a small sensation by threatening to commit suicide because she thought her husband no longer loved her, and who failed to carry out her threat, has left Alameda. Her husband will take up his residence in San Francisco, while Mrs. Harvey and children will go to Los Angeles.

Peter O'Laughlin, whose domestic troubles have brought him into considerable notoriety, had another row with his wife yesterday and was arrested for disturbing her peace. He has sent to jail several times for a like offense, and although he vows never to speak to his wife or go where she is, he seems to be unable to resist the temptation to visit her. A row is the result and O'Laughlin seems to get the worst of it.

The Health Officer, McLean, is again on the warpath after Coroner Evers. The body of the man who committed suicide about a month ago in the slough, alongside of the Webster street roadway, was removed by the Coroner without a permit from Dr. McLean. In fact, he did not know that the body was there until so informed by G. R. Miller, Chairman of the Board of Health, last evening. When the Health Officer learned that the Coroner had removed the body without a permit he became very much vexed. "He has no more right," said Dr. McLean, "to move a body from Alameda without a permit from me than he has the right to commit murder in Alameda with impunity. Both are violations of the law." The other members of the Board of Health agreed with this sentiment, and the Health Officer was instructed to investigate the matter and to file a complaint against the Coroner for the violation of a city ordinance.

A TOURIST LETTER.

Three Months From Vacaville to the Town of Berkeley.

Ceremonies of Dedication of the New Baptist Church in the College Town.

Bishop Leonard of Nevada will preach in the Episcopal church tomorrow (Sunday) evening.

One of the dairymen of North Berkeley mourns the loss of a cow. A boy was seen driving the animal toward Buchertown Wednesday afternoon, and probably the meat is already in some market.

The following is the programme of the dedication services of the Baptist church, to take place tomorrow at 2:30 P. M.: Invocation, Rev. C. H. Robart of the First Baptist Church of Oakland; reading Scriptures, Rev. William Spencer of the First Baptist Church of Alameda; sermon, Rev. J. Q. A. Henry of the First Baptist Church of San Francisco; address, Rev. Frank Dixon of the Tenth Avenue Baptist Church of East Oakland; prayer, Rev. G. S. Abbott, D. D.; Benediction, by the paster, Rev. E. T. Whittimore.

E. T. Page received word December 1st, last, that a draft for several hundred dollars had been sent him from England. The letter was sent to Vacaville, Mr. Page's former residence, at which postoffice directions had been left to forward his mail to Berkeley. Mr. Page's brother, who resides in Vacaville received the letter and immediately placed it in a new envelope and addressed it to Berkeley, Alameda county, Cal. E. T. Page waited over two months after receiving notice that the draft had been sent from England and hearing nothing from it wrote regarding it. On the 5th of this month Mr. Page received the letter from Vacaville, postmarked at that place, December 2, 1889. Therefore the letter was more than three months traveling from Vacaville to Berkeley. In the meantime Mr. Page was obliged to go to a considerable amount of inconvenience to meet a payment on land which he had purchased, for which he expected to pay with money from the draft.

FLAGS ON SCHOOLS.

Superintendent Fisher is Pushing Patriotism.

PRINCIPAL HORTON'S COUP D'ETAT.

The Funds of the Country School Districts in Good Condition Save in One Case.

County Superintendent Fisher is still after the county teachers trying to induce them to secure an American flag for each school in the county. The teachers seem to be a little slow in heeding the request and many of them have not taken any action while others have purchased flags for the school buildings. Mr. Fisher has received price lists of flags and teachers can secure any information desired at his office. A flag for every one of the county schools is a hobby with the Superintendent.

Principal George W. Horton called at the County Superintendent's office this morning to secure a salary warrant. He told a little story of how he fooled two young men who came to his school to distribute handbills. The young men arrived at the gate of the school yard just before time for dismissal, their object being to give each child an advertisement. Mr. Horton knew if this was allowed the schoolyard and street would be strewn with the bills and present an untidy appearance, so he determined to put a stop to the scheme. He approached the young men and kindly asked them not to distribute the bills, giving his reasons therefor, and for his trouble received an insulting reply, to the effect that their business was none of his business. Mr. Horton then returned to the schoolroom and proposed to outwit the insulting intruders. When the pupils were marching out he called a halt and all the lines were stopped. Mr. Horton addressed the boys and said he wanted them to do him a favor. He informed them that two men were outside, ready to present them with handbills, and asked them, as a favor to him, not to take a single bill. The pupils marched out and not a single pupil took the bills offered. The young men left in disgust, feeling that they had been outwitted by the Principal.

There are no vacancies in the county schools at present. The annual election of teachers will occur in June, and until that time the teachers now waiting for positions will have little chance of securing positions in the country schools.

Nearly all the country school funds are in good condition at the present time, save the Peralta school. At this school it may be necessary to cut the term short, in order to reduce expenses.

The annual election of School Trustees in the county will not occur until the first Tuesday in June. The date of the election was recently changed from Saturday to Tuesday. Mr. Fisher, personally, does not like the change, and says it was made to please the Jews and the Seventh Day Adventists.

Mr. Fisher is preparing his paper on "The Rural Schools of California," which is to be read before the meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Educational Association which will shortly convene in New York. Mr. Fisher has made arrangements to have the address published in full in the New England Journal of Education.

"Why don't you have it published in a California educational journal?" was asked.

"Because I prefer to have it published in the East," replied Mr. Fisher, "and then I guess it will be copied here."

The meeting of the California State Teachers' Association will take place in Los Angeles on the 18th of this month. Mr. Fisher expects to attend the meeting and says that he is advised that many teachers from this county will attend.

The Livermore, Haywards, Pleasanton, and Niles schools are in a flourishing condition. No complaints have recently been received from any of these schools.

She Knew Him Better.
Richmond Dispatch.

Among the converts at the present revival in Richmond is a man whose wife left him recently on account of alleged cruel treatment. Sorrowful and repentant, as the story goes, he called on the partner of his bosom, not long since, to promise better fashions and ask her forgiveness. The aggrieved wife listened to his story, but concluded that she could not overlook his past offenses.

"But the Lord has forgiven me," urged the saved sinner, "and why can't you?"

The woman shook her head emphatically, as she replied: "If the Lord knew one-sixteenth part of your devilry he'd never forgive you in this world or the next."

Still After Woodard.

Carlton H. Clark has commenced another suit against J. H. Woodard, to recover $939, claimed to be due for services as a clerk. Clark claims that he was employed by Woodard at a salary of $50 a month. The defendant, however, asserts that he did not employ the young man. This is the second suit commenced by the plaintiff.

A Sudden Call.

Mrs. Victoria Moore, an aged colored woman, who resides at 1572 Fifth street, attended church last evening, and when returning home she fell to the ground in a helpless condition. She was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where she died in a short time. Heart disease was the cause of death.

Young Men's Institute Picnic.

The different branches of the Young Men's Institute located in Alameda county have perfected arrangements for holding a grand excursion and picnic to the Big Trees, on the narrow gauge road. The date has been fixed for Wednesday, May 14, 1890.

The American Party.

The American Party Alameda County Committee has engaged a hall at 467½ Twelfth street, Oakland, for the campaign. The committee meets every Tuesday evening.

JUST FROM THE EAST.

A Successful Plea by a Youthful Train-Jumper.

Jonathan Nichols, one of the youthful train-jumpers brought before Justice Henshaw this morning, had had as a plea, that he had just arrived from the East and did not know that there was a law against getting on and off a moving train. Judgment was suspended in his case, and also in the charges against Willie Scott and Robert McDuffe. Bail was suspended in the case of Frank Simpson. John Ahern, who asked for a trial, had the hearing continued to Monday next.

THE ELDER'S FAMILY.

The Wife Not Economical, and the Daughter Flirted.

The Assertions in a Pamphlet—Trouble Among Seventh Day Adventists of Fresno.

Harmony does not preside at the councils of the Seventh Day Adventists. Differences have expressed themselves at Fresno, where the Adventists have a fine building and a large congregation, and have caused the attendance at the fine building to dwindle. Elder E. P. Daniels, who formerly lived at Oakland, now of Fresno, sent in his credentials on December 15, 1888, and since that time has held aloof from any responsibility of the actions of the conference. The Fresno Republican contains a statement from Elder Daniels in which he says that Elder J. N. Loughborough of Oakland, impertinently prohibited him from teaching a class in voice culture in Napa, although he was receiving but $12 or $15 a week from the conference as his salary for teaching, and also ordered him to sell some mining stock he had purchased. Elder Daniels also complains of Mrs. Ellen G. White, who is prominent among the Adventists, and says:

"To add to the injustice done me, Mrs. White, at the instigation of her friends, began the circulation of a pamphlet six or eight weeks ago, containing a scurrilous attack on my wife and children. My wife was wantonly held up to public ridicule for the sake of injuring me, and my eldest daughter, aged 17 years, was vilified by the accusation that she acted improperly, all of which is untrue. On the cover of the pamphlet was printed in small type something like this: 'Caution—Use discreetly among the brethren.' Now, such gross insults as those," continued Mr. Daniels, "were simply more than I could bear, and knowing the utter falsity of their character, I handed in my credentials rather than be associated with such people."

Elder J. N. Loughborough of this city says, that there is no charge of heresy against Elder Daniels, but he persisted in mixing religion and speculation, and he was compelled to devote all his time to his work for the church. Speaking of compensation, the elder said, that $12 or $15 per week is the salary paid to preachers, and he knows of one brother who received only $12 a week, supported a sick family, and saved over $200 in a year for general charity. "We simply wrote Elder Daniels," continued Elder Loughborough, "that we couldn't have him dabbling in mines, engaging in real estate business one day, speculating in mines another, and preaching the next. That he must give up speculation or the ministry."

Concerning the pamphlet Mr. Loughborough said that only 244 copies were printed. It suggests that Mrs. Daniels did not practice the economy becoming an elder's wife, and as to Miss Daniels, the elder said: "Oh, there was nothing criminal in her conduct; it was only impropriety. She simply flirted with the young men while at the college at Healdsburg. This was against the rules, and it was thought that her father did not discountenance it, as he should."

A Fleet-Footed Officer.

Frank Parker dropped into Meyers' store, on lower Broadway, last evening, and, while engaging the attention of one of the clerk's, slyly slipped a package of coffee under his coat. He was detected, however, and, on being told to return it, he dashed out of the store and ran along up the street at top speed. Officer Carlson was near by at the time, however, and a hot chase ensued, ending in Parker being captured, after he had run three or four blocks. His case was, this morning, continued by Justice Henshaw to the 10th inst.

Ten Revellers.

Of the ten individuals charged with drunkenness before Justice Henshaw today, Jacob Grier demanded a trial, and his case was dismissed upon evidence that his arrest was illegal. Maggie Rhodes was allowed to go, but Mary Sawyer, who is now distinguished on the police sheet by the entitlement "common drunkard," had the hearing of her case continued until Tuesday. The rest of the defendants were fined the customary $5.

Sewers and Streets.

Sanitary Inspector Smith complains that when the sewer contractors complete their work they leave the streets in such a condition that they are full of chuckholes. He suggests that they be compelled to file a bond to keep the streets in repairs for a reasonable length of time after they dig up the pavement.

Plumb Isn't In It.

Secretary C. M. Plumb of the Board of Trade has declined to serve as a member of the Committee of One Hundred, now engaged in agitating the water question. He says, he is not a taxpayer nor a water rate payer in this city, and that his business takes him to San Francisco every day.

AGENCY FOR HARPER'S BAZAR PATTERNS.

THE NEW WARDS.

Request to the Council Not to Delay.

A STRANGE CONFUSION POSSIBLE.

The City Political Subdivisions Should Not Divide Any County Precinct.

The territory within the county of Alameda has been divided into new precincts and the voters will be registered according to the precincts in which they live. The old system of one general county register has been abandoned and the old register has been cancelled.

In dividing the territory within the City of Oakland into precincts, County Surveyor Nusbaumer carefully so arranged the lines that every one of the precincts is wholly in one ward, wholly in one Assembly district and wholly within one Supervisor district.

The Senatorial and the Assembly districts and the Supervisor districts are described, of course, in laws and ordinances by metes and bounds and not by designation of wards and precincts.

Now, the new charter of the city of Oakland requires that the city shall be re-districted by the Council in the year 1890, and every tenth year thereafterth. The new ward boundaries must be fixed this year, and at the city election to be held next March the Councilmen and School Directors elected from wards must be elected from wards described during this year.

At that city election the registers of voters used must be the registers prepared by the County Clerk. As explained, the names of the voters in each one of the precincts are enrolled on the register for that precinct. Therefore, if the Council, in making the new boundaries of wards, should place a part of one county precinct in one ward and the remainder in another ward, great confusion in voting would be caused.

The importance, in fact the necessity, that the new ward boundaries should not divide any precinct is apparent.

County Surveyor Nusbaumer will draw the attention of the City Council to this important subject, and also will ask that the Council begin immediately to bound the wards.

The purpose of the Council has been not to change the political subdivisions of the county until after the election in November next, but a petition for immediate action will be presented.

The desire for present action is to assure that no precinct will be divided in making the wards. Now, where the precincts have just been fixed by the Supervisors, the Council would be sure to consider the precinct boundaries in fixing the ward boundaries; while, if the division is postponed until November or December, the important matter of making county precincts and city wards co-terminus might not be considered.

The importance of a change in the boundaries of the wards in the city, in a partisan sense, was treated in an article recently printed in THE TRIBUNE.

True Art by a True Artist.

It is seldom a lover of fine art is presented the opportunity of seeing nature so beautifully counterfeited by brush and color, as greeted a TRIBUNE representative at the residence of Mme. Grandjean-Hofer at 682 Twenty-fifth street. The first studies shown were clusters of flowers in water colors so just to nature that they looked as though they had just been plucked and placed carelessly upon the back ground, the effect produced being perfectly grand, while on the wall hung the perfect likeness of a sunburnt boy, so true to the subject that it seemed he too enjoyed the studies on exhibition before us. On a plush covered plaque were several miniature enameled paintings which are painted on an enameled gold plate that passes through eight different series of fires before being completed. Mme. Grandjean-Hofer, is the only artist in America who does this kind of painting and who received the medal at the Centennial of the school of arts at the Geneva. She has done several of these paintings for Mrs. Leland Stanford, but says she intends to give more of her attention to the teaching of water color painting and drawing.

A Great Importing Firm.

The old firm of J. Macdonough & Co., of San Francisco, is probably known in all quarters of the globe as one of the largest importers and dealers in coal and pig iron in the United States. Captain J. C. Wilson of this city, and C. A. O'Brien, some time ago bought out Mr. Macdonough and continued under the old firm name for some time but have now changed the name to Wilson & O'Brien. The office of the firm is at 41 Market street, corner of Spear and they are prepared to supply the retail coal trade and foundries at the lowest market rates with the highest grades of foreign and domestic coals, pig iron, etc. Telephone No. 1864.

Scaly Skin Diseases.

Psoriasis 5 years, covering face, head and entire body with white scabs. Skin red, itchy, and bleeding. Hair all gone. Spent hundred of dollars Pronounced incurable. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

Cured by Cuticura

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed. It then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were like one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head, and shoulders being the worst. The white scabs fell constantly from my head, shoulders, and arms; the skin would thicken and become hard very thick, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. Heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a chance and after I had taken four bottles, I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I thought the disease would leave a very deep scar, but the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured it without any scars. I cannot express what I suffered before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I owe it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight. I know of others who have received great benefit from their use.

THE Ashcat Hambletonian

STALLION

Will Make the Season of 1890, Commencing February 15, 1890, at Dexter Stables, corner Twelfth and Harrison Streets, Oakland.

He is a very dark bay with all black points and flowing mane and tail; stands 16 hands high; weighs about 1200 pounds; is 9 years of age; is heavy limbed and muscled, and for style, action, and beauty is equal to any—excelled by none. In disposition he can't be beat. He showed at the Bay District Track in San Francisco in 1887 and took the first premium for an American horse of all work.

PEDIGREE:—Ashcat Hambletonian Stallion was got by Hambletonian Junior; he sired by Whipple's Hambletonian; he by Guy Miller. Guy Miller by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; Hambletonian Junior's dam was the Ashcat mare, and she was got by Rysdyk's Hambletonian purchased by Stelle Whipple, in Orange County, New York, for $30,000, and imported to California. She is the mother of the three noted trotters, viz: Hambletonian Junior, Ajax and and Kitty Thorne. This leaves the Ashcat Hambletonian the standard bred American stock. The Ashcat Hambletonian 1st dam Topsy; 2d dam Peggy. Peggy was a Messenger mare and imported from Kentucky by Don Cameron of East Oakland. Topsy was sired by Black Pilot; Black Pilot was of Morgan and Black Hawk stock. Topsy trotted a hard race in Dublin at three years old, in a heavy road sulky and won the race in 2:35

TERMS.

For Season, $25. Any mares proved to have not foaled will be served next year free of charge.

Society in the Quiet Days of Lent.

THE CALENDAR OF COMING EVENTS.

The Places at Which the Merry Ones Enjoyed Themselves During the Week.

The Anthony Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Anthony received a large number of their friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Barr, Thursday evening. Many musicians were present and many choice vocal and instrumental selections were rendered. A delicious repast was served in the dining room. The company did not disperse until a late hour, and then bade their host and hostess a joyous good night.

Merry Foresters.

Mystic Circle, No. 34, Companions of the Forest, gave a social dance at Foresters' Hall last evening. An enjoyable time was spent by those present, who were: Ed Logan, J. J. McCarthy, May Doran, E. Cahill, E. D. Woodworth, A. A. Marshall, F. I. Miller, J. T. McClellen and wife, John Dobson, Miss Ward, Miss Dora Mires, Miss Kittie Collins, J. Harvey, C. L. Frank, Miss Mamie Pinkham, A. Marshall, Miss May Quigley, Miss May Howard, J. A. Hulling, Miss Georgie Joice, Annie Solaro, Miss E. Burns, Mrs. F. E. Miller, Miss Etta Lawlor, Jennie Dobson, Frederick McGregor, Miss E. Walker, Miss M. Powers, F. W. Sanford, Dave Lynch, Aggie Toomey, T. J. Moore, J. Judge, George R. Hughes, H. Tellier, Miss Tisdale.

Union Veterans' Union.

The entertainment given by Abe Lincoln Command Union Veterans' Union at Cavalry Hall on Thursday evening was largely attended. The entertainment consisted of tableaux, recitations, singing and other features. The tableaux consisted of scenes, showing the "Uprising in the North," "Wilson Creek, the Spot Where Lyons Fell," "Vicksburg, After the Battle, with Surgeons and Friends," "Battle of Antietam, with Incidents," "Camp Scene" from The Confederate Spy. J. M. J. Kane recited the "Speech of Mark Antony" and "Sheridan's Ride" in response to an encore. Some pretty war songs were rendered by Miss Sadie Bean. Messrs. Aldrick and Babcock gave selections on the banjo. Prof. Stuart and pupils also gave some selections on the string instruments. The remainder of the tableaux were as follows: Minnie Deal, as "Sleeping Beauty;" Laura Deal, as "Goddess of Liberty;" Lillie de Liske, as "Angel;" George Wimble and Katie May, as "Maids."

After the entertainment refreshments were served, and the floor was cleared for dancing. Members of Company F., Fifth Infantry Regiment, N. G. C., assisted in the tableaux. The committee in charge of the affair were Comrades Dannal, Baker and McGowan.

The Purim Ball.

There was a large gathering at Cavalry Hall on Thursday evening last, on the occasion of a domino party given by the First Hebrew Congregation in commemoration of the feast of Purim. A large number of those present were in masks. Many of the dominoes were very handsome. A number of people from San Francisco attended. The Fifth Regiment Band orchestra furnished excellent music for those who wished to dance.

Dancing began at 9 o'clock and was kept up until an early hour in the morning.

The following committee had charge of the affair:

Reception Committee—J. Greenhood, President; D. Magnes, Vice President; George Setter, Max Marcuse, Alex Cohen, Fred E. Bernstein, Joseph Harris, W. B. Greenbaum, A. Jonas.

Floor Manager—Joe Harris.

E. Bernstein, Secretary.

Among the merry throng the following were noticed: Rev. and Mrs. M. S. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. George Samuels, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. S. Steen, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. DEATH OF A YOUNG WIFE.

Mrs. Grace Hamilton Pond Will Be Mourned by Many.

Mrs. Grace Hamilton Pond, wife of James H. Pond, principal of the Sacramento High School, and daughter of Judge and Mrs. Noble Hamilton, died yesterday morning at Sacramento, after a brief illness. Mrs. Pond was born in San Leandro and spent the greater part of her life in this city, where she received her education, and where she was married less than three years ago. She was only 22 years of age at the time of her death, and leaves no living children. Funeral services will be held at Sacramento tomorrow, and the body will be brought to Oakland for interment in Mountain View on Monday.

Mrs. Pond will be remembered in Oakland as a woman of unusual beauty and of rare kindliness in disposition. She was a great favorite in society here, and will be sincerely mourned by many to whom she had been endeared by her gentleness and unselfish sympathy. She was the sister of Miss Nettie Hamilton, Mrs. Ed H. Hamilton and W. B. Hamilton, Deputy Naval Officer. Her death was the result of childbirth.

A Foolish Wish.

Why need I seek some burden small to bear
Before I go?
Will not a host of nobler souls be there
Heaven's will to do?
Of stronger hands, unfailing, unafraid?
O, silly soul! what matters my small aid
Before I go?

I tried to find, that I might show to them
Before I go,
The path of purer lives; the light was dim—
I do not know
If I had found some footprints of the way;
It is too late their wandering feet to stay,
Before I go.

I would have sung the rest some song of cheer
Before I go.
But still the chords ring false: some jar of fear,
Some jangling woe.
And at the end I cannot weave one chord
To float into their hearts before my last warm word,
Before I go.

I would be satisfied if I might tell,
Before I go,
That one warm word—how I have loved them well,
Could they but know!
And would have gained for them some gleam of good!
Have sought it long, still seek—but if I could!
Before I go.

'Tis a child's longing on the beach at play;
"Before I go,"
He begs the beckoning mother, "Let me stay
One shell to throw!"
'Tis coming night, the great sea climbs the shore—
"Oh, let me toss one little pebble more,
Before I go!"

REMEMBERED HER RELATIVES

Mrs. Barnard's Bequests to People in the East.

Henry Rogers has presented for probate the will of Abbie S. Barnard, deceased, who left an estate in this county valued at $13,000. In her will the testatrix makes the following bequests: To her three cousins, Asa P. Whitney of Marshall, Minn., Mrs. Phebe Ann Cummings of Portland, Me., and Mrs. Sarah F. Hayes of Wolfboro, N. H., each the sum of $500; to her friends, Miss Emma A. Vigoureux of Dorchester, Mass., and Miss Carrie Anderson of San Leandro, each $300; to Edward H. Todd of Lynn, Mass., $500, in trust, to placed on interest, said interest to be expended yearly for the use of his three cousins, the daughters of Charles W. Todd, deceased, and the testatrix advises that such money be expended for fuel. To the four children of her sister, Mrs. L. H. Todd of Lynn, Mass., each the sum of $1000; to her neice, Emma Barnard Keith, of Lynn, Mass., $2500; to her nephew, G. E. Barnard, of the same place, nothing is given, but he is not in need of it; to her sister, Mrs. L. H. Todd, of Lynn, the residue of the estate is given. The petitioner is named as executor, to act without bonds.

Dress Improvement.

The Woman's Dress Improvement Club held an interesting meeting yesterday afternoon at the Blake House. Miss Kate Wurtz presided. Plans were discussed for a co-operative establishment for the manufacture of Annie Jenness Miller dresses and underwear, also a millinery department.

Dr. Buckel and Miss Wurtz spoke of a healthful and artistic dress for pupils in the schools, as many physicians say the gymnastic exercises are positively harmful to girls, on account of their dress restrictions.

Mrs. Hawkins announced that all are invited to attend Germania Hall next Monday evening, and witness the German method of physical culture. The club invites all ladies interested to attend their regular meetings, the first Friday of the mouth, at the Blake House.

Wharves Building in the East Oakland Basin.

EFFECT OF HARBOR IMPROVEMENT.

As the Dredging of the Channel Progresses the People Prepare to Use the Harbor.

Daily travelers on the local trains between Twenty-third avenue station and Brooklyn have noticed for several weeks past a pile driver busily engaged in sticking piles out into the water from the foot of Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues. Now it is clear to see that three or four large sized wharves are being constructed. The wharves are being built out as far as the ship channel now dredging by the government, and eastward as far as the mouth of the tidal canal, and when this is completed it may be seen how valuable the wharves will become.

The largest of the four wharves is building at the foot of Eighteenth avenue, opposite J. S. Derby & Co.'s tannery. In conversation with a TRIBUNE reporter, Mr. Derby told something of his intentions. The wharf in question will extend out from Eighteenth avenue 400 feet, and will have a frontage of 220 feet on the Government channel. This wharf will be larger than the new city wharf at the foot of Franklin street. "For the past twenty years," said Mr. Derby, "G. F. Crist and myself have had trouble in bringing in our tanbark into Brooklyn. The only wharf up here is that little one at the foot of Thirteenth avenue, and the lumber company cannot spare room always when we want it. When the Government began operations up here, Crist and I decided to build a wharf of our own on my frontage, and so the matter is going ahead, but poor Crist did not live to see it completed. The San Francisco Bridge Company is building it, and they expect to turn it over to us inside the next month. We have not decided yet whether we shall lease the wharf or not, but probably we shall. I intend to open Eighteenth avenue through this property to the wharf, and then it will be the best and most easily reached in Oakland. It is situated right among the tanneries, potteries, and near the Cotton Mills, so that all these factories can use it for shipping by water, and find plenty of room on it, too."

Another wharf near that of Derby & Co. is being built for Kimball & Co., the great west port lumber merchants. This wharf will also have dimensions of sufficient size to make a good shipping and receiving place for lumber.

D. Beadle & Co. of 5 Spear street, San Francisco, are building the third wharf, which will not be as large as either of the other two, and this will also be used as a lumber wharf.

The fourth wharf is said to be building by an East Oakland pottery firm, but inquiry among the potters failed to reveal anybody who would admit having an interest in the undertaking. All the wharves will front on the Government channel, which, at this point, will have a depth of water of 16 feet at low water, and, at the rate they are building, all will be completed within the next 60 days and ready for operation.

THE UNIVERSITY.

The Tennis Tournament Postponed on Account of the Rain.

The Occident for this week presents two zincograph plates showing the plan and the elevation of the new chemistry building now in course of construction. The building will be a two-story structure, with basement. In the basement there will be eighteen rooms, on the first floor thirty, and on the second floor four; in all fifty-two rooms. When completed the building promises to be such as the University may well be proud of.

Townsend and Lakeman have been appointed senior representatives on the Athletic Committee.

The University baseball team was to have played the E and O E's this afternoon at Central Park, San Francisco. A series of three games has been arranged between the two for the amateur championship of the State.

Professor James LeConte delivered a lecture last evening at the Berkeley Methodist Church on "Natural Grounds for Belief in Immortality."

S. M. Sayford, representative of the International College Young Men's Christian Association, will deliver a lecture next Wednesday afternoon to the students.

The tennis tournament for the championship of the university did not take place today on account of the rain. It was postponed till next Saturday. There is some talk of having it put off till May to give the newly developing players a chance to practice.

On Monday evening Locke Richardson will give his last Shakespearian recital, under the patronage of the Longfellow Memorial Association, in Assembly Hall. He will read the first part of Henry IV.

Undertakers' Merrymaking.

The Undertakers' Assistants of California will have a banquet and high jinks at the Metropolitan Temple, San Francisco, this evening and the Oakland delegation will leave here for the scene of action at 7:30 P. M. Unique cards of invitation, bordered with black, and bearing a skull and crossbones, have been issued, at the foot appearing the notice, "Funeral Services at 8:30 P. M."

ANNEXATION SUIT.

Another Motion to Strike Out Made by the City's Attorneys.

The suit of The People, ex rel. Edson Adams, against the City of Oakland will again come up for hearing next Monday on a motion made by the defendant to strike out certain portions of the complaint. This is a very important move on the part of the city. The attorneys want stricken from the complaint these words: "But is and has, during all of said time, been within the jurisdiction of and subject to be governed by the Board of Supervisors of the county of Alameda, and which said territory hereinbefore described was and is partly within the township of Oakland and partly within the township of Brooklyn, in the county of Alameda, and not incorporated for municipal purposes.

The defendant also asks to have stricken from the complaint, this paragraph; "That the City of Oakland, in the charter adopted on the 14th of February, 1889, was divided into wards, the boundaries of which were fixed and defined by said charter, and the said territory hereinbefore described, is not now, nor ever has been, within the limits of any of the wards of said defendant, the City of Oakland, either under under the present, or any former charter. That the Relator now is, and for more than two years last past, has been a qualified elector, and an actual resident within the district hereinbefore described. That he has not, nor have the inhabitants of said territory ever been permitted, nor are they now permitted, to vote at any municipal election in the said city. That neither the territory described nor the inhabitants thereof are represented in the Council of the legislative department of said defendant, or in the school department of said defendant, nor in any other department of the municipal government of said defendant."

The motion will be made upon the ground that each and every one of the portions of the complaint mentioned are irrelevant, redundant and superfluous.

FORGOT HER NAME.

The Predicament of a Young Man who is Going to Get Married.

A young man with a pleasant smile stepped up to Cupid's counter in the County Clerk's office yesterday afternoon and announced that he desired to secure a marriage license.

"Certainly," replied Cupid Hunter. "You can have one. That's our business. Your name?"

"Fred. Burrell Moulton."

"And the lady's?"

"Hattie A. Black."

"Her middle name?"

"Really, my dear sir, I don't know what the 'A' stands for. Strange, I ought to know it, for we went to school together."

"Must have full name," suggested Cupid Hunter.

"Ah, my boy, never mind it; we don't care. Just make out the license with the initial A."

When the clerk informed the young man that the law requires the full names of the contracting parties, he was surprised. He became angry. The smile turned into a frown. He kicked, and then left the office, and had not returned up to noon today.

Pike's Peak.

Lone hoary monarch of the Titan peak
Offspring of Heaven and earth in planet jars,
Bare bodied savage, grim with unheeded scars,
To thy wild band thy voice in thunder speaks;
Thy sword stroke is the avalanche that wreaks
Quick vengeance on thy kneeling victim. Wars
Come but to yield thee homage, and the stars
Visit thee nightly. Yet thy long gaze seeks,
Unsatisfied, the playmate of thy prime—
O yearning like to mine—that goddess bright,
The ocean stream, O deep embrace that time
Forgets not, ere stern gods beyond thy sight
Her dungeons sunk! Thy memory that, thy hope,
This ocean-seeking stream that cheers thy slope.

Harping on the Same String

There is a State law that all children between the ages of 8 and 14 years, shall attend public school, but it is entirely disregarded here. Speaking of the matter, Superintendent of Schools McClymonds said that the reason for the delinquency is that there are no accommodations in the schools in which to place the children if the law was enforced, and he suggested that an appropriation for more school buildings would be a good thing for the Council to consider.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

Odd Fellows Celebrate an Anniversary.

THE GOLDEN RULE ENCAMPMENT.

The Twentieth Birthday of a Prosperous Branch of the Order of Odd Fellows.

An odd number—to-wit, 95—of Odd Fellows made merry in Oakland last night. It certainly was an occasion of rejoicing, for it was the twentieth anniversary of the time when Golden Rule Encampment, No. 34, was organized in the City of the Oaks, and laid the foundation for one of the most prosperous and energetic branches of the order.

On that eventful evening, in 1870, when the unfurling of the banner took place with elaborate ceremonies, the members of Unity Encampment, No. 26, of San Francisco, were present to participate in the celebrations, which, year by year, since that time, have been memorialized by a grand re-union and banquet.

That was the reason, therefore, for yesterday's festivities. Early in the evening the San Francisco visitors crossed the bay and marched to the Odd Fellows' Hall, where a grand combined lodge meeting of the two encampments was held. From the hall all proceeded to the Galindo Hotel, which had been selected for the banqueting place. The capacious dining hall was an inviting scene, with its festoons and garlands suspended from walls to chandeliers, the lights in which shone down on an array of tempting viands, shown to their best advantage by shoening tableware arranged with precision. It was exactly half after 9 o'clock when Grand President D. C. Smith took his chair at the place of honor at one of the long tables, and then the feast began. As the corks popped and the generous wine circulated, the conversation became merry and the laughter hearty, and the introduction into the banqueting chamber of a quartet of colored men, who gave a number of vocal selections, brought forth rounds of applause that resounded throughout the building from attic to cellar. Then came the speech making.

As master of ceremonies Arthur Ward, of Golden Rule Encampment, called upon D. D. G. P. Lilienthal of Encampment No. 1 to deliver an address, but that gentleman transferred the honors to A. Juel, Chief Patriarch of Unity, who made a few remarks complimentary of the hospitality with which the visitors had been received, and in conclusion tendered a formal invitation to all present to attend, on Tuesday evening next, the Twenty-third anniversary of Unity Encampment in San Francisco.

Past Chief Patriarch Armstrong and G. P. Smith of Sacramento could not be prevailed upon to do much more than excuse themselves from speaking, but Grand Representative Crossett, on taking the floor, launched out into an account of the great work being done by the order. He stated that in San Francisco alone $75,000 had been distributed during the year for the relief of distress and misery, and that deeds such as these are done by the Odd Fellows in every city of the United States.

Past Chief Patriarch L. W. S. Downs of Alameda said that he was proud of Oakland because it had more beautiful streets, more lovely parks, more music, more good cheer and more good-looking girls than any other city he knew of in the wide world. Then, reverting to the subject of Odd Fellowship, he said that during the past year 40,000 new members had been added to the order, which now includes under its standard an army of 620,000 working for the noble rights of humanity.

Past Chief Patriarch Pinkham of Oakland Encampment, No. 64, spoke of the havoc made in their ranks by death, but said that the vacancies were more than filled by the rising generation, in whom the principles of the order have been instilled.

Grand President D. C. Smith changed the character of the speaking by giving a very humorous recitation of the visit of Captain McGinnis of the Montgomery Guard of New York to the Trustees of Boston, Massachusetts. He was followed by Senior Warden Blunden and High Priest A. M. Peach of Unity and Past Chief Patriarch Sudiffe of Massachusetts, all of whom made short and happy addresses.

A guitar solo by George C. Kautman closed the evening's gaiety, and as the banqueters arose from the table it was with the unanimous opinion that the gathering had been a most glorious success.

Single Tax Conundrums.

At a meeting of the Single Tax Club last night the question of securing a more commodious hall for the meetings was discussed, and it was finally decided to hire Grand Army Hall two nights each month. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for a lecture on March 22d, when it is hoped to have Judge Maguire deliver the lecture.

The club desires answers to the following questions: Would the destruction of the speculative element in land values retard or invite increased improvements?

Would the exemption of improvements from taxation be a substantial encouragement to the further increase of improvements?

What would be the effect on labor and the labor market if improvements on land were materially increased?

Answers may be sent to the Secretary, E. C. Hodkins, 1718, Seventh street, Oakland.

Pythian Grand Lodge.

The Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will convene in San Francisco on the eleventh of April. Most of the local lodges have elected delegates. R. A. Parker and W. W. Moore are delegates from Liberty Lodge, No. 33, and A. Wielander and George Samuels will represent Fair Oak, No. 17.

NOTARIES' FEES.

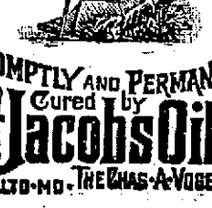

The Semi-Annual Report of the Sums Collected for Taking Oaths.

County Clerk Boardman has prepared a statement of the fees collected by notaries public in this county for the six months ending December 31, 1889, and will in a few days forward it to the Secretary of State, as required by law. Many of the notaries have failed to comply with the law compelling them to report the amount of their collections to the County Clerk. The gentlemen who have thus failed will be reminded of their default by Mr. Boardman. The fees collected are as follows: P. D. Browne, $1014 50; M. T. Dusinbury, $1095 50; C. C. Marsh, $135 75; A. Koenig, $920; J. M. Poston, $211 30; Stephen R. Wood, $10 50; E. O. Crosby, $42 50; A. P. Holland, $31; Fred V. Wood, $90; John R. Palmer, $143 50; A. C. Bloomer, $140 50; John G. Mattos, Jr., $78 40; Edward Bernstein, $216 50; George Braunall, $100 50; Will H. Burrall, $445; Thomas C. Huxley, $168; W. H. Sanborn, $21; W. W. Bishop, $22; Thomas A. Smith, $84 75; M. H. Herman, $169; J. B. Richardson, $173; George Schmidt, $30; N. W. Winton, $126 50; W. A. Yates, $51 50; E. W. Woodward, $270; Cary Howard, $86; David Stoddard, $76 50; Edward C. Robinson, $134 40; Hiram A. Luttrell, $140 60; J. W. Mose, $317 50; James Gamble, $12 50; W. H. Wright, $158; J. B. Lanktree, $58; G. W. Langan, $92; George B. Seamen, $203; W. L. Prather, $284 25; William Holtz, $58 50.

Failures in a Week.

The Bradstreet Mercantile Agency reports 13 failures in the Pacific Coast States and Territories for the week ending yesterday, as compared with 6 for the previous week and 25 for the corresponding week of 1889. The failures for the past week are divided among the trades as follows: Two saloons, two restaurants, one miller, one dry goods, one cloak, one millinery, one hotel, one banker, one general store, one tinner and one grocer.

Templeton Moon.

Mr. Spangenburg is a lover of poultry at Templeton, and he last week produced an egg weighing 8¾ ounces, laid by one of his favorite hens. The farmers about Templeton were very envious of Mr. Spangenburg for a couple of days, and then the 8¾ ounces was eclipsed by a large Langshan pullet egg, brought into town by A. Hudson. This "tipped the beam" at 4 ounces. Mr. Hudson was the admired center of a circle of poulterers until S. Jacobwitz came to the front with an ordinary 15 cents per dozen oval taken from a case of hen fruit. The betting was against this article and in favor of the larger and more voluptuous-looking eggs, and Templeton was inclined to laugh at the egg. A scale test, however, decided in favor of the Jacobwitz egg. It weighed five ounces and stood on its end with grace and ease. After the excitement attending the weighing of the scrub egg had abated, the "critter" was opened, and in the bowels of it was found enough quicksilver to make a thermometer healthy. The proprietor of the Farmer's Produce Exchange had inoculated the egg with the heavier substance. And of such is the kingdom of Templeton.

An Evening in Yosemite.

There will be given in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening next, an illustrated lecture on Yosemite Valley. The pictures to be shown upon the screen are from negatives taken by J. F. Young, who has the reputation of being one of the best of the amateur photographers in this section. The description of the wonders of the valley will be given by Geo. D. Gray, from notes taken during a trip. In his lecture he mingles facts and fancy, dry statistics and laughable incidents in such a manner as to be both pleasing and instructive.

TWELVE-PAGE EDITION.

THE TRIBUNE is the only paper in Oakland that has the Associated Press Telegraph Report.

Not Vulgar.

A great deal of very just indignation has been elicited by the inconsiderate expression of a London paper, which did not approve of the selection of Chicago as the site of the exposition of 1892, because, forsooth, it is a "vulgar city." This unjust slur on a city which has become noted for its insight of the mysteries of Browning and its assiduous study of Dante was thought unkind, as well as ignorant, and even the bristles on hogs stood up with patriotic fury. It gives us pleasure, therefore, to learn that the work of culture goes steadily on in Chicago, and that nothing in the way of human learning is too hot or too heavy for the Chicago antiquarian. Having sounded the depths of Browning and Dante, he (or she, as the case may be) is now busy with "Egypt and Egyptology," under the guidance of Amelia B. Edwards, L. L. D. The Inter Ocean tells us, in the picturesque Chicago way, that lectures like those of Dr. Edwards "start trains of thought and furnish wood and water for their locomotives." The metaphor is a little obscure, perhaps, to the uninitiated, but we have no doubt it conveys a world of meaning to those who understand it, because it is made the predicate of the deduction that "it is greatly to the credit of Chicago that it took such a lively and general interest in the series, based, as it was, on the lady's own archæological researches."

Simultaneously with this valuable course of lectures, another was given by Professor D'Ooge, devoted to the enlightenment of a learned body, which has assumed the pleasing and instructive task of making researches "at the sacred city of the Delphic oracle and temple." It is true that the sacred city is full 5000 miles away, but that is a trifling obstacle to the learned Chicagoan archæologist. We are told that "Chicago's interest in it dates back only a few months," and to this fact is doubtless due the prevailing ignorance about Delphic oracles. The oracle will do well to hunt her hole now, or forever hold her peace if she expects to retain her prestige as a mystery. Chicago, led by Professor D'Ooge, is on her track, and Chicago usually gets there with both feet. What that means, New York knows. The Chicago foot is a tremendous fact.

These pleasant facts are mentioned cheerfully to assist in removing the unjust assumption that Chicago is a "vulgar city" merely, where the worship of the American hog goes on forever, and the people pursue the nimble dollar by day and night, knowing no rest. In the light of these facts we confidently challenge the effete civilizations of the old World to bring on their learned pundits, and we will match Chicago against them in 1892 for the whole gate money.

A Few Facts.

THE TRIBUNE printed six columns of interesting telegraphic news yesterday, and there is little in the columns of our morning contemporaries today, which did not appear in these columns yesterday. The failure of the old banking house of Belloc, the passage by the Senate of the bill appropriating $300,000 for a public building in Oakland, the strange story of a mutiny at sea, and a hundred other matters of general interest from all quarters of the globe, were set out in full detail. THE TRIBUNE has the only telegraphic service in Oakland that is worthy of the name.

Today, will be found in our columns the same full showing of general news, the complete local news of the town, and the usual interesting San Francisco correspondence, which has attracted so much attention all over the State. Marcus D. Hyde of this city contributes a valuable article on the blockade of promotion in the United States navy. Mr. Hyde is well equipped for the treatment of his subject, having served with high credit in that branch of the service. The other departments of the paper are bright, newsy, and interesting, and we do not hesitate to challenge comparison with any paper issued in

Sugar

The difficulty of raising the tariff in such a way, as to do as little injury as possible, finds a pregnant illustration in the case of sugar. There is an article on which consumers paid more than $50,000,000 in duties in 1888, chiefly for the benefit of the insignificant sugar industry of the South. If that industry, alone, were concerned, the country could afford to buy out all the sugar planters within its borders, and make money by wiping out the duty. But there is, in fact, a great deal more at stake. The beet sugar industry is only now making a fair start. It is not at all improbable that in twenty-five years, if this industry is fostered by wise protection, the United States will be making the greater part of its sugar. Shall we then cut off that protection, which we have maintained for so many years, for the benefit of a few Louisiana planters, just at the moment when there is a prospect that the sugar industry may become important? That is the question which has occupied so much of the attention of the Ways and Means committee of the House in the past month. There is another difficulty not generally dwelt upon, very important nevertheless, and this is, that the foreign countries from which we buy our raw sugars, would in all probability impose an export duty by which they would collect the money which now goes into the United States treasury, and the consumers would be no better off, while the United States treasury would be the loser. A writer in the Philadelphia Ledger thus discusses the subject:

No other article of food is in such general use, and "free sugar" has a pleasing sound. I am moved somewhat to make these observations by recent contributions to the statistics of the question that have appeared in the Commercial Bulletin and in Willett & Gray's circular. In 1888 over $50,000,000, or nearly 80 per cent., ad valorem, were paid in duties on sugar. This is a tax of about 77 cents on every man, woman and child in the United States. The abolition of the duty would take off about 2 cents on every pound of sugar sold in the United States. Willett & Gray claim that "a popular movement of the people for free raw sugar, from countries which do not increase their present export duties, would stand a better chance of success now than ever before, if coupled with a bounty of 2 cents per pound to home producers and ½ cent per pound protection against foreign refined. The result, if successful, would be as follows: Duty on sugar at 2 cents per pound, $55,000,000; bounty at 2 cents per pound, $7,000,000; saved to consumers, $18,000,000." The Bulletin, which is free trade in its tendencies, says that "free sugar is neither asked for nor desirable; but moderation of duties by abolishing the color line entirely, and reducing the rate on polariscope test, so as to admit high grade raw sugars in competition with refined, would be but common justice to tax-payers and consumers." In support of this position it shows that "of the $50,440,014 duties collected in 1888, $50,640,070 was paid upon grades from No. 13 downward." This, it claims, is a "refiner's tariff."

The measure here advocated is substantially that which the Ways and Means Committee has decided in the past week to recommend. It is quite likely to be adopted, and it will give the beet sugar industry the protection it requires, and will relieve the consumer, unless the exporting countries decide to take advantage of the change by putting a duty on the sugar they sell to us. Should they do so, however, the home sugar industry will have the double protection of high prices and the bounty besides.

Spencer's Conundrum.

Burlington Free Press.

The following is Herbert Spencer's definition of life: "The definite combination of heterogeneous changes, both simultaneous and successive, in correspondence with external coexistence and sequences." As the publishers have calmly put forth this definition unrelieved by a chromo or any other sort of inducement, we take the liberty of saying that Mr. Herbert Spencer will present a palm leaf fan to the first person who sends him a correct solution with serial diagrams.

A Duc's Meals.

New York World.

The meals of the young man who calls himself the Duc d'Orleans have cost $300 for the brief space of two weeks. It is not surprising, in view of the youth's appetite, that the economical French Government declined to enlist him as a soldier. Table board at $150 a week for private soldiers would very quickly impair the financial condition of a Government that must maintain a large standing army.

The Future.

That marbly door
Admits no fruit of all our long endeavor,
No fame wreathed crown we wore,
No garnered lore.

What can we bear beyond the unknown portal?
No gold, no gains
Of all our toiling; in the life immortal
No hoarded wealth remains,
Nor gilds, nor stains.

Naked from out that far abyss behind us
We entered here:
No word came with our coming to remind us
What wondrous world was near;
No hope, no fear.

Into the silent, starless night before us
Naked we glide;
No hand has mapped the constellations o'er us,
No comrade at our side,
No chart, no guide.

Yet fearless toward the midnight, black and hollow,
Our footsteps fare;
The beckoning of a father's hand we follow—
His love alone is there,
No curse, no care.

AUTHOR PATIENTS.

New York's Literary Doctor Discourses of Them.

WRITERS ARE AN UNHEALTHY CLASS.

How Much Sleep A Writer Should Have—The Literary Exodus to Europe—Gossip.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, March 4.

There is a New York physician who has probably more famous authors as his patients than any American doctor. He is the recognized "literary doctor," and his comments upon the effect of authorship upon the brain and body carry weight. "I believe," said this eminent man of medical letters, recently to me, "that authors are the unhealthiest men of any professional workers. Their nervous troubles are legion. As a rule they are never, what you would call seriously ill, but they are more subject to every nervous disease that troubles the human race than any class of men which come under my notice. They strain their nervous system to the utmost, and exhaustion is quick to follow. As patients they are most difficult to handle. Their minds are ever busy concocting some new plot, when every muscle of brain and body needs rest. They will not be quiet, but always insist on being around and reading when they cannot write. 'Let me at least, have my book, doctor, if I cannot have my pen?' is the invariable request. And then they expect me to bring them around. They will not be convinced that reading exercises the mind. 'It quiets me,' they all say. The great trouble with authors is that they do not allow themselves enough sleep. A busy author needs ten hours' sleep every day. He should under no circumstances write after dusk. Ten o'clock should find him in bed. Besides this, if he can, a half hour's nap in the middle of the day is a tremendous stimulant. But authors, as a rule, are very obstinate, and when they are nervously exhausted they are positively worse than useless," and the instances which he cited certainly carried out his assertion.

THE LITERARY EXODUS TO EUROPE.

The literary exodus for foreign shores promises to set in earlier this year than ever before. Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton will be among the first to leave. She will sail early in April, and go to Italy for a prolonged stay. Anna Katharine Green has arranged for a year's visit on the continent to seek health. The authoress will be accompanied by her husband, who is also her literary adviser and manager. Edgar Saltus will go abroad in May for the summer. Mrs. Frank Leslie intends going for a short visit to England preparatory to her debut on the lecturing platform in America next autumn. Olive Logan has already gone, and it is probable that this gifted writer may settle permanently in London. "I do not know," she said to me on the eve of her departure, "whether I shall ever return to America. I am going to establish a literary agency in London, which I intend shall be the 'dropping-in place' for all American literary tourists." And thus Europe will, in all probability, harbor many of the brightest of American litterateurs during the coming years.

MAGAZINES AND COPYRIGHT.

A most untruthful report has been circulated that our leading magazines are either indifferent to international copyright or are entirely opposed to it. I know this statement to be precisely the reverse of the truth. I have talked on the copyright question—I was going to say a hundred times—with the most prominent magazine editors in the country, and know that they are unanimously in favor of it. "Why should our magazines oppose a measure so directly for their benefit?" said an editor to me last evening. "In fact, we have subscribed a large sum of money in support of the bill, and all the leading magazines have done likewise. It is preposterous to start such a report, for I have myself personally canvassed my contemporaries on the subject, and know that, to a man, they are heartily and unqualifiedly in favor of copyright." This, coming as it does from one of the very best posted editors in the country, should set at rest the report so maliciously circulated.

Despite the oft-demonstrated fact that poetry does not pay, there is a constant increase in the numbers of verse-builders each year. I know a literary man who is called the "poetry editor" of one of our magazines. He reads all the poetry submitted to his magazine, and probably handles more than 1500 pieces of verse each year. "Last year," he says, "it was fully that number. This year there is almost a third increase, with the quality getting decidedly worse. Now, there is nothing in the world so difficult to write as a good sonnet, quatrain or poem. And yet will our young authors insist upon making their literary debut with some verses. Ninety-nine per cent. of them are as a natural consequence, hopelessly bad. And then the subjects chosen are the most amusing and unpoetical you can imagine. Half of these aspiring poets pay no attention to the metre, their whole attention being apparently absorbed in the great feat of rhythm. They think the rhyming of their lines is all that is necessary. Fully a third of the poetry which comes to me is not worth reading, another third warrants reading for personal amusement, while of the rest, about 2 per cent. are worth considering. Now, that is the present condition of the poetical market—at least, so far as my magazine is concerned, and we get first call on about all that is going around."

THE VALUE OF AUTHORS' LETTERS.

It is interesting to note that a number of authors have finally complained vigorously because of the sale of their letters, manuscripts, and papers to autograph hunters. Walter Besant, who is always prominent in any movement directed toward the benefit of the literary man, is especially vigorous in his protest. He tells the story recently of finding a large number of his own letters for sale in a print shop, and among them was one of a prominent scientist, now dead. He tried hard to buy back his own epistles, but the shopkeeper refused to sell unless he bought the most valuable letter, signed by the scientist, and rather than pay an exorbitant sum he relinquished the idea of trying to keep his private notes out of the hands of the public. There is scarcely a writer who has not at some time suffered in this way. I remember a prominent American author once finding a passage from a letter he designed to be most private and personal copied into the catalogue of an autograph dealer, with the interesting fact attached that the original was "worth $1.25." He said that if it was worth that much to the autograph collector, it was worth it to him, and the letter was taken out of the market. The selling of such letters, however, certainly serves to indicate in a curious way, a writer's degree of popularity. In England, where this trade is carried on to a greater extent than with us, the commercial value of this kind of goods is quite standard; thus at a recent sale, Sir Theodore Martin's letters we find worth 6 pence; Mr. Burne-Jones is rated at a shilling per letter; Mr. Holman Hunt brings 4 shillings. Royalty is quite cheap, except the crowned heads, and the average author now living brings only 4 pence to a shilling per letter. The value is so small that it would hardly seem worth while for anyone to commit the dishonorable act of selling a private letter.

THE NEWEST LITERARY GOSSIP.

An editorial friend of mine recently sought Mrs. Grover Cleveland to write a magazine article, offering her the most flattering terms for the briefest possible essay. But the ex-President's wife is apparently not ready to enter literature. "No, no!" she wrote. "I am now a private citizen, and I shrink from appearing in print any more than is absolutely necessary."

Mrs Henry Ward Beecher goes to Florida in a week for rest and to perform some literary work.

A new collection of stories by Louise Chandler Moulton, to be called "Stories Told at Twilight," is in preparation by Roberts Brothers of Boston. This author's last book of poems, "In the Garden of Dreams," is rapidly approaching a second edition.

Anna Katharine Green's story, "The Forsaken Inn," is to be brought out this week by the Bonners in book form.

George W. Childs's "Recollections" are to be published in about a fortnight. Considerable new material will be added, and almost a new book, fresh in interest, is assured.

Mrs. Burnett's new story, "Little Saint Elizabeth," is to be embellished with twelve full page illustrations specially made for the book by the artist Birch. There will be three other stories in the book besides the title tale.

The publication of a new edition of Darwin's "Voyage Round the World" by the Appletons will be received with pleasure by those to whom the old editions are inaccessible. The forthcoming edition will be made further interesting by a series of views and illustrations.

Miss Elizabeth Brisland, who has really a great deal of literary capacity, has been given the permanent position of literary editor of the Cosmopolitan. To many it was a sore disappointment when Miss Brisland lent herself to the globe-trotting craze, since she is both fitted and destined for much more substantial honors. She has an accurate literary judgment, writes most interestingly, is gifted with a well-developed instinct for a good book, and can easily make her mark in literary work.

DELAYED TRAINS ARRIVE.

The Blockade on the Central Route Was But Temporary.

The Washouts on the Oregon Route Cause More Trouble to the Railroad Men.

All the delayed trains arrived today except the Oregon express, which is held at Ashland because of heavy washouts in as many as twenty different places between Mott and Delta. They cannot be cleared away for two days or more.

Two overland trains arrived over the Central route at 6:45 o'clock this morning, and two more arrived at 8:30 o'clock. Train No. 2 of today arrived on time, and train No. 4, the fast mail train, did not arrive until nearly 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Train No. 18, the Los Angeles express, arrived shortly after noon. No. 20, the Southern Pacific overland, arrived on time.

The slides and snow drifts on the Central route have been cleared away, but it looks as though more trouble will occur, especially at Cascade cut, where the snow drifts and fills the cut so deep that the plows cannot throw it out.

SONG AND DRAMA.

The Concert of the Oakland Harmonic Society.

THE MANSFELDT CONSERVATORY.

Locke Richardson's Reading of "The Rivals"—Fred Emerson Brooks's Recital.

The Harmonic Society has been drilled especially during the six years of its life in melodious glees and part songs. The heavy work of oratorio is not attempted. Mr. Hughes, the director, has conducted his choice chorus more among the flower gardens than among the wheat fields of music. The harvest is, therefore, a bouquet of the sweets of sound, and not a crop of the heavy grain of intricate harmony.

At the concert last evening, to listen to which the First Methodist Church was thronged, the choral selections were Ralf's "Winter Carol"; Barnby's four-part song, "Sleep the Bird in Its Nest"; Leslie's "Lullaby of Life," and the chorusses of C. Gregor's cantata, Spring and Love.

With taste and grace, these choruses were sung by the society. The shading showed appreciation of the delicate music. The weight of the parts is not exactly equal, the difference is appreciable only when considering volume, for the modulation of the stronger parts to suit the weaker was excellently arranged.

The solo singers of the concert were Alfred Wilkie, tenor, Mrs. Charles Poulter, Miss Beatrice Priest, H. H. Lawrence, Jr., and Russell Coldwell. Miss Priest was for a time, the soprano of the choir of St. Paul's Church, but is now singing in concert here. She has a clear soprano and sang charmingly Arditi's waltz song "Il incontro," and for an encore, twice demanded, sang the "Echo Song."

Mr Coldwell has a fair, robust, tenor voice. He and Mrs. Poulter sang the solos in the cantata. Mr. Lawrence sang his baritone solo vigorously, and was encored. Mr. Wilkie, a well-known artist, sang artistically. Miss Flora C. Kendall, the pianist, selected a bit from Seeling and a study of Chopin for her solo, and played exceedingly well.

The Boehm Flute.

At the next musicale in Byron Manzy's warerooms, 308 Post street, San Francisco, H. Clay Wysham will direct an interesting entertainment, at which he will show that the Boehm flute is a legitimate means to truly musical ends; and thus may be indicative that if some writers have successfully employed the so-called classic forms in flute music, others may follow in their wake with equal benefit to the garnery of art, for these forms are pliable, and the limit of their variability is only the bound of the composer's imagination, so that successful precedent may be a stimulus, but never a restraint, to creative musicians. A musician now, without being a flute player, can write for the instrument and feel perfectly sure that, so long as he keeps within its compass, he may give his fancy free play. He is no longer cramped, as in writing for the old German flute, by being fettered to this or that key, nor is he obliged to ask a player whether a certain passage is possible or not on the flute.

The programme will include concerted music by six Boehms, flute solos, and songs by Mrs. Alfred Abbey. A novel feature will be whistling by two young ladies, who have cultivated the art of whistling.

The Mansfeldt Conservatory.

The pupils of the Mansfeldt Conservatory of Music gave their fifth piano recital last night at the music hall of Kohler & Chase, on Broadway. The programme was a very entertaining one, and was as follows:

Sonata, A major ..... Mozart
Hugo Mansfeldt.
Waltz, A flat major ..... Chopin
Miss Clara Werth.
Gavotte, G minor ..... Bach
Miss Edith Reynolds.
Rhapsodie No. 6 ..... Liszt
Miss Jennie Beaser.
Grand duo, "Puritani" ..... Berg
Misses Hattie and Josie Dunlap.
Rhapsodie No. 12 ..... Liszt
Mrs. D. D. Crowley.
Study, C major ..... Moszkowski
Miss Eva Crowley.
(a) Nocture, G minor ..... Chopin
(b) Waltz, A flat major)

The Great Levy Coming.

A popular musical event of this season will be the concert of the great Jules Levy Company at the Congregational Church on Tuesday evening, the 18th inst. Levy, as every one knows, has never been equaled as a cornet-player, and it is a fact that he has played to more people than any other living artist. He ranks among musical authorities with Joachim, Sarasate, Camilla Urso, Liszt, Rubenstein, D'Albert, Vieuxtemps, and Wieniawski. He might truthfully be called the most popular instrumentalist living, for the pure and sweetly-sympathetic tones of his golden horn reach the hearts of the masses, quickly and surely. He brings with him a great soprano, an eminent American tenor, and a fine pianist. He comes via southern California, where every seat for his concerts has been sold in advance. Clark Wise and H. A. Redfield are managing the concerts in Oakland.

The Richardson Recital.

Locke Richardson read at the First Presbyterian Church last evening Sheridan's The Rivals, and a large audience was entertained by the humor of the dramatist and excellent reading of Mr. Richardson. This was Mr. Richardson's last reading in Oakland this season, and after he had finished many friends gathered around him to say the sorrowful word "farewell" and to thank him for the pleasure his readings have given them.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the church announce for their next entertainment "An Evening in Yosemite," stereopticon views by John F. Young and oral description by George D. Gray, to be given on Tuesday evening next.

Fred Emerson Brooks.

Fred Emerson Brooks read selections from his own poems at the First Congregational church last evening, and pleasing diversity was given to the entertainment by excellent music.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. Bacul, the French agent, demands that 4000 men be sent to defend the post, and declares that if an expedition to Aghome, the capital of Dahomey, be undertaken, a further force of 4000 men will be necessary. He considers that an attempt to conquer Dahomey would prove futile. He holds it would be preferable to secure French rule on the coast.

PARIS, March 8.—It is reported here this evening that the trouble between France and Dahomey has been settled.

HUNTING FOR EYRAUD.

They Are Looking for Him in Mexico Now.

CITY OF MEXICO (via Galveston), March 8.—Four French detectives arrived here in pursuit of Eyraud, the assassin of Gouffee, the Paris Marshal, whose horrible murder in July created a sensation throughout France. They are looking for the murderer in this city and Puebla.

IA BOHEMIAN RIOT.

Suppressed With Very Little Consideration for the Rioters.

PRAGUE, March 8.—A number of students assembled in the streets here, marched to the houses of several old Czech professors and acted in a riotous manner. The soldiers charged the students with fixed bayonets and dispersed them.

THE SINKING FUND.

Purchases by the Treasury of The Railroad Bonds.

WASHINGTON, March 8. – Acting under the opinion of the Attorney General that he has discretionary power in matter, Secretary Windom has begun the purchase of the Pacific railroad sinking fund bonds, and the investment of the proceeds in first mortgage bonds of the subsidized roads. The purchases for the present will be confined to Government 4 per cents, of which there are now available about $4,500,000. The amount of those already purchased, is $700,000, and the proceeds were invested in mortgage bonds, of the Union and Central Pacific roads.

A CANADIAN EXPRESS

Stalled in the Snow Near Lake Onaway.

BANGOR, Me., March 8.—The Canadian Pacific express is stuck in a snowdrift near Lake Onaway. Many passengers are aboard, and the train blockades the line, and all traffic is interrupted. There has been a very heavy fall of snow, from Greenville to Mattawamkeg, and the drifts are twenty-five feet deep.

Later advices are to the effect that the train was released after a short delay.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

Witnesses Before Land Registers—Indian Scouts.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—In the House the morning hour was consumed in the discussion of a bill for the compulsory attendance of witnesses before the registers of land offices. The bill was passed. The House then, in Committee of the Whole, resumed consideration of the public buildings measures.

McCreary of Kentucky, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported a resolution requesting from the President any correspondence with the Mexican government in regard to the employment in the regular army of Indian Scouts for the purpose of pursuing hostile Indians in their raids into the territories of the United States, and any correspondence in regard to the proposed transfer of the Apache and Chiricahua Indians from Mount Vernon barracks, Ala., to Fort Sill, Indian Territory. Adopted.

THE PARKER HOUSE.

The Liabilities of the Lessees Are $315,000.

BOSTON, March 8.—The creditors of Purchard & Main, lessees of the Parker House, held a meeting last evening. While no definite settlement was made, a proposition was submitted by the debtors, looking to an agreement. The aggregate liabilities are $315,000 and the assets nearly $200,000.

A DUTY ON CORN.

France Preparing to Protect Her Own Farmers.

PARIS, March 8.—The Customs Committee of the Chamber of Deputies has voted to impose a duty of 3 francs on foreign corn and 5 francs on corn flour.

PRESIDENT OAKES

Tells Something of the Plans of the Northern Pacific.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., March 8.—President Oakes of the Northern Pacific was here, and stated that the lease of the Wisconsin Central to the Northern Pacific will be signed very soon. He denied the report that the Northern Pacific is negotiating for the control of the Baltimore and Ohio. Oakes and his party left this morning for the Pacific slope.

THE FUNDING BILL.

President Adams Will Not Define the Union Pacific Policy.

BOSTON, March 8th. — President Adams of the Union Pacific says that no meeting of the western presidents has yet been called. Adams is not yet prepared to state the position of the company relating to the funding bill.

MISSOURI'S TREASURER.

His Shortage Expected to Amount to $30,000.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 8.—The committee to investigate the affairs of the State Treasurer, have finished counting the cash, and found it ten thousand dollars short. They express the opinion that an examination of the books and papers will increase this to over $30,000.

HIGH WATER

Delays Travel in the Sacramento Valley—The Snow.

SACRAMENTO, March 8.—The Bee's Oroville special says the train from Marysville did not reach here last night on account of high water there being sixteen inches, covering the track at Slattery Slough, just this side of Marysville. Feather river has reached a height of sixteen feet above low water mark. It fell one foot last night. It is raining here, and snowing in the mountains. The snow has been made soft by the continued rains in the mountains, and traveling is dangerous, even on snowshoes.

THE REPUBLICAN SENATORS

From Montana Declared Entitled by the Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Senate Committee on privileges and elections, after a long session today, finally reached a decision in the case of the contested Montana senatorships, and by a party vote decided to recommend to the Senate that Power and Saunders, the Republican Senators, be seated.

THE MAN FROM HAYFORK

Who Was Imprisoned for Fourteen Hours as a Vagrant.

RED BLUFF, March 8.—A suit for $5000 damages for false imprisonment has been commenced against Marshal Robertson by Albert L. Kellogg. The latter was arrested as a vagrant and confined fourteen hours and released. He is a son of L. J. Kellogg, a wealthy resident of Hayfork Valley.

English Racing.

LONDON, March 8.—At the Kempton Park March meeting the champion hurdles, two miles over eight hurdles, was won by Theodolite; Papyrus second; Castilian third.

An Insane Attorney.

ZENIA, Mich., March 8.—It is announced that Attorney General Trobridge will be compelled to resign his office on account of insanity.

The Evolutionists.

LONDON, Pa., March 8.—The American evolutionary squadron has arrived at Naples.

Launched.

CHESTER, Pa., March 8.—The United States gunboat Concord was successfully launched this afternoon at Roach's shipyard. The launch was witnessed by many people.

PENDLETON'S FUNERAL.

The Notables of Ohio Turn Out in Full Force.

Public Services at the Cincinnati Music Hall—An Imposing Funeral Parade.

CINCINNATI, March 8.—The funeral services over the remains of Hon. George H. Pendleton were attended by the family and friends only. Meanwhile, the cortege formed to escort the remains to Music Hall consisted of a detachment of police, the First, Regiment Ohio National Guard, Governor Campbell of Ohio and staff. The hearse was surrounded in a hollow square by the members of the old Woodward Club. Carriages followed, containing the family and friends, Mayor Mushy, Governor Buckner of Kentucky, ex-President Hayes, ex-Governors Foraker, Cox, Noyes and Bishop, ex-Minister Taft, ex-Lieutenant Governor Lyon, the municipal officers of Covington and Newport, and the foreign consuls. A long line of civic associations, and all the political clubs of both parties were in attendance.

On arrival at Music hall the casket was borne to the catafalque in front of the stage. The hall was beautifully draped with the national emblems and palms. Conspicuous among the flowers was a wreath in the German colors, placed there by C. Pollier, the German Consul at Cincinnati as a token of the love of the German people for Pendleton. After the services the casket was followed by the family and friends to Spring Grove Cemetery where the interment was made.

A NEW PLAN

For the Disestablishment of the Primary Election.

David Dudley Field Explains His Ideas of Electoral Reform—Compulsory Voting.

BOSTON, March 8.—In a speech at the Massachusetts Reform Club dinner last night, Hon. David Dudley Field, on the subject of "Honest Government" said that primaries for the choice of candidates are very unsatisfactory. In places where a registry is held, each voter, when registering, should name his candidates. If there is no registry they should be called on to express their preferences in writing, the ones having a plurality to be nominated. He would make as many voters as possible take part in the nomination, and would have all vote. Compulsory voting is as necessary as compulsory education.

BURNED THE BOOKS.

The Fate of the Irish Land League Papers and Documents.

Michael Corcoran Destroyed Them on His Own Responsibility—Patrick Egan's Note.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Michael Corcoran, of Lincoln, Neb., has written a letter to the Inter Ocean, which explains why the books and checks of the Irish Land League were not produced before the Times-Parnell Commission in London. Corcoran says that Patrick Egan left these papers with him in the Hibernia bank, Dublin, in 1883. Subsequently Egan left for America, and it seemed best to him (Corcoran) to have the books and checks burned, though Egan, in a note, had assured him there was no treason in them. Corcoran says it was his own thought to burn them, without suggestion from anybody else, and, if it was a fault, it was his alone.

ON ALL POINTS.

The Railroad Demurrer to the Tax Suits Upheld.

THE SUPREME COURT DECISION MADE

The Opinion Written by Justice Fox and Concurred in by All but Beatty and Thornton.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8th.—The Supreme Court this morning decided the long pending contest over the railroad taxes. The decision is in favor of the railroad company, the court holding that the complaint is defective, and that the mode of collecting taxes under Section 25 of Article 4, of the Constitution is unconstitutional. There were five suits, the defendants being the Central Pacific Company, the Northern Railway Company, the San Pablo and Tulare Company, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and the California Pacific Railroad Company. The decision is rendered in the case of the first named. It is a lengthy document of about thirty closely type-written pages. It was written by Justice Fox and is concurred in by Justices McFarland, Patterson, Sharpstein and Works, while Justice Thornton and Chief Justice Beatty dissented, the latter writing a short opinion in support of his views. The points involved concern the right of the State and counties to collect taxes under the provisions of the new constitution. The complaint of the people sets forth that on August 14, 1885, the companies named were owners of roads in seventeen counties and the taxes due to the State and Alameda county were first given consideration. It was set forth that the companies refused to pay the taxes, assessed in accordance with the provisions of law, and the courts were appealed to to enforce collection. The State courts decided in favor of the companies, and then the people appealed to the Supreme Court, and the companies interposed a demurrer to the appeal, averring, among other things, that the court had no jurisdiction; that the mode of collecting the taxes was unconstitutional; that the cause of action was not properly stated; that there were not sufficient facts to constitute cause of action; and that the complaint was ambiguous in not stating why the tax was incurred nor why the five per cent. penalty was added. The Supreme Court upholds all of the objections and every point is considered well taken. After giving these reasons for pronouncing the complaint defective, the decision turns to the mode of collecting taxes, as prescribed in Section 25. Numerous authorities are cited to show that it is burdensome and unequal, discriminating against roads running through two or more counties, and in favor of those in one county only, thus making the law unconstitutional. The judgment of the lower court is consequently affirmed.

Chief Justice Beatty's opinion dissenting from the decision is very brief. It states that the main point at issue is not whether the complaint is defective, for a new one eliminating all these defects could be drawn, but whether the mode of collecting taxes is unequal. He contents himself with the bare assertion that the law is just to all concerned and hence constitutional, but does not go into any lengthy discussion of the matter, nor does he treat of the other constitutional questions at stake.

STANFORD'S GIFT.

He Sends a Check for $2000 to Mayor Pond

To Be Expended for the Relief of the Unemployed People of San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Mayor Pond received this morning a check for $2000 from Senator and Mrs. Stanford as a contribution to the fund for the relief of the unemployed in this city.

THE STORM

Rages Furiously in the Sierra Nevada.

DAMAGE TO THE FRUIT CROP FEARED.

Seventy-nine Days' Rain at Vacaville—Streams Rising in the Mountains—Rain Promised.

NEVADA CITY, March 8.—It has been raining fast since morning. Deer Creek fell two feet last night, but is rising now. The thermometer is at the lowest point this winter. There is an earthslide thirty feet long in the cut-out at the end of the tunnel, two miles from here, which occurred last night, and is again blocking this end of the narrow-gauge. The railroad trains to and from Colfax are met at the tunnel by vehicles from here. They expect to get the track clear today. The thermometer took a sudden drop just before noon, and snow commenced falling.

VACAVILLE, March 8.—The seventy-ninth day of this season's rain commenced at an early hour this morning with a heavy driving southwest storm, equaling in violence any of the season. Its continuance for a day or so will do considerable damage to the apricot crop, as the trees are in full blossom.

GRASS VALLEY, March 8.—A furious rain fell all the morning interrupting traffic and travel and causing the streams to boom. Many miners are still idle on account of water in the mines.

NAPA, March 8.—At 8 o'clock this morning Napa was visited by a small hurricane. Several trees were uprooted. Rain fell heavily all night and today is stormy.

OPENED AT LAST.

Through Mail Service by Train With Oregon Restored.

For the first time since the great snow blockade the Oregon mail will, this evening, leave the city to go through by train, a telephonic message being received today from Superintendent Wilder, of the Railway Mail Service, stating that the line is open. The mails will be ported around the big slide.

No overland mail was received yesterday from the East, for, although a train arrived, there were no letter bags on it. One is expected, however, this afternoon. The mails for the East are now being sent out regularly over the Central Pacific route.

QUALIFIED TO TEACH.

Certificates Issued by the Board of Examination.

The Board of Examination of the city school departments held a meeting in the Board of Education rooms late yesterday afternoon. There were present Superintendent McClymonds, and Principals Garlick, Chandler and Dunbar.

A first grade certificate was granted to Miss Bessie Barnes on an educational diploma and a similar certificate to Miss E. M. Asmus on a life diploma.

A Second grade certificate was granted to Miss Helen Southard on a California State normal diploma.

High school certificates were granted to Fred L. Burk and W. A. Dow on University diplomas, and the farther recommendation of the faculty.

They Have Flags as Well.

Principals Garlick, of the Cole, and Chandler, of the Franklin schools want to know how it is that although such a grand event is being made of the floating of a flag over the Tompkins school no notice is being taken of the schools under the charge. They also have flags, large size American ones, with the full complement of stars and stripes, and they say that the national standards float just as proudly in the breeze over their schools as does the flag over the Tompkins school.

Better Than Jumping.

A very satisfactory exhibition of the Bien Automatic Fire Escape was given yesterday at the Brunswick Hotel, before Members of the Board of Public Works Martin and Playter, President of the Council Cauron, Sheriff Hale, Chief Engineer Kennedy and Assistant Engineer O'Kane of the Fire Department. Several descents were made by Mr. Bien, the son of the inventor, and Chief Kennedy also came down with a strap under his armpits, and reached terra firma safe and satisfied. The matter will be brought up officially later on.

The Soup House in Debt.

The committee of the Humanitarian Soup House will meet again on Monday afternoon, and will arrange for the settlement of the unpaid bills. As many expenses have been incurred, and as there is no money in the treasury, with which to defray them, an urgent call is made to the charitable to send contributions to 1248 San Pablo avenue.

The Lost Child Claimed.

The announcement in yesterday's TRIBUNE, that a two and a half year-old child had been found by the police, brought relief to the aching heart of the mother, to whom the item in the paper was shown by a neighbor, and she at once went to the City Hall and obtained her offspring. The little one's name proved to be Irene Simmons, and her place of residence, 479 Twenty-First street.

Broad Gauge Language.

Robert Reynolds lost his temper yesterday while riding on a broad gauge train and indulged in language of such strength that Officer Aldrich was called upon to take him into custody. He was sentenced to pay $30 or serve fifteen days by Justice Henshaw this morning.

Medium and Mind Reader.

Miss May Howard, the English medium and mind reader, will give the second of her seances at the Oakland theater tomorrow evening. Her exhibition last Sunday evening was enjoyed by a large audience.

False as False Could Be.

A broken wire of the fire alarm service caused a false alarm at the Sixth street engine house shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon, and a heavy cloud of smoke from the gas works furnace led the firemen to believe that the fire was on the water front. The apparatus did not go far from the engine house before the cause of the summons was learned.

James Moffitt's Estate.

A. W. May, Robert McKillican, and John M. English, have been appointed by Judge Greene to appraise the estate of James Moffitt, deceased.

Colonel O'Brien's Property Attached.

Vittonio Arcotonini has attached the real estate of Colonel W. H. O'Brien to secure payment for a debt of $167.

REVERSED CAR RAILS.

The City Will Wait Until the Work Is Completed.

City Attorney Johnson was asked this morning what the city intended to do regarding the stand announced by the East Oakland street railroad not to change the laying of their rails from the method forbidden by the Board of Public Works. He said: "The law says that their rails must be laid with the least obstruction to traffic. Now, as they are placing them at present, the metals undoubtedly obstruct travel more than by laying them in the ordinary manner with the flange inside, but the company avers that when the work is completed it will be found that this objection will be removed. What method they propose to adopt to remedy the evil I do not know, but I understand something is to be done with the high part of the rail, which, at present, forms the obnoxious feature. We will, therefore, wait until the laborers have finished, and then if the promised alteration is not made, we will have a case against the company."

THE CRACK O' DOOM.

The Wet Weather Subdues the Predictionists.

There was rather too much of a tidal wave from the skies today for the doom-sellers. They gave up their public meetings on the street corners, and it was not necessary for Captain Hunt to get out and offset the possible panic of the timid by showing his cheery face and admonishing them to stay where they were. The predictionists contented themselves with meeting at the home of the prophecy at the corner of Sixth and Washington streets, or with shouting unexpectedly, "Flee unto the mountains!" in out of the way places.

LIENS AGAINST THE ALBANY.

Another Suit Against Macdonough and Simpson.

The Puget Sound Lumber Company has brought suit against Joseph Macdonough, owner of the Albany Hotel and Robert F. Simpson, the contractor who erected the building to foreclose a mechanics' lien of $2787 85 for lumber furnished in the erection of the hotel. The same plaintiff, as assignee, has also brought suit to foreclose the heirs of M. Marks for $208 for sash weights, etc.; Pierce & Co. for $780 20 for nails, etc.; Frederick H. Rosenbaum & Co., $2761 00 for window glass, etc., making a grand total of $6,506 69, besides $250 for attorney's fees.

To Recover a Judgment.

J. K. Stewart has sued Chauncey Park and wife to recover $338 on a judgment secured against him by George Patterson.

Look Out for Your Stores.

The police department has located some old-time cracksmen in town and is watching their movements closely, for their visit here is doubtless on professional business.

Opening of the De Mille.

The new De Mille which is situated on the northeast corner of Eighth and Washington streets has opened its doors for those who wish to engage elegantly furnished rooms in the center of business traffic. This new building is located one block from the local trains and one block from Broadway, with cable cars passing the door, the upper floor is splendidly arranged with rooms in single and ensuite, the lower floor has been arranged with departments suitable for business or professional offices.

The management wish to correct a rumor afloat and announces to the public that the De Mille will be conducted upon the strictest rules and no objectionable character allowed to enter the building. The dining parlors in connection with the restaurant are for the use of first families only; and will be strictly free from any acts of detriment to the establishment.

Their Last Saloon Gone.

Ninety-five men signed the temperance pledge at Kelseyville, last week and the only saloon in the town has been closed. It is proposed by a popular society to send Ormsby the photographer to make photographs of the town representing before and after. It is known by most everybody that Ormsby makes the finest photographs in the world at his studio, 1055 Broadway.

The New Insane Asylum.

Governor Waterman, has approved the purchase of a site for an insane asylum near San Bernardino which was made last week. An asylum has long been wanted in the southern country in which to confine those cranks who cannot realize that Henry Schellhaas of Eleventh and Franklin streets gives the best bargains in furniture and household supplies in this state.

POLL TAX NOTICE.

OAKLAND, March 8th, 1890.

Public notice is hereby given that the State Poll Tax of Two Dollars for the year 1890 is now due and payable at my office, Room 1, Courthouse, or to a Deputy Assessor.

Sec. 3839 of the Political Code reads as follows:

Every male inhabitant of the State, over twenty-one and under sixty years of age, except paupers, insane persons and Indians, not taxed, must annually pay a Poll Tax of two dollars; provided, the same be paid between the first Monday in March and the first Monday in July, then it shall be three dollars.

Sec. 3846 of the Political Code makes it the duty of the Assessor to "demand Poll Tax of every person liable therefor, and on the neglect or refusal of such person to pay he must collect by seizure and sale of any personal property owned by such person."

Under sections 425 to 431 every person who refuses to give his own name or the name of any person in his employ, or who in any manner obstructs the Assessor or any of his deputies in the collection of the State Poll Tax, is guilty of misdemeanor, and liable to a fine of $500 or imprisonment in the County Jail, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Only those persons under twenty-one or over sixty years of age are exempt. Poll Tax must be paid on demand.

THOMAS MOLLOY,

Assessor of Alameda County.

FERNS FOR FLORAL ARRANGEMENTS

Poultry Topics — Incubator-Hatched Chicks—Early Brooders—Fruit and Poultry.

FERN NOTES.

The remarks of Mr. Watson in his London letter of a few weeks since to the effect that popular interest in fern collections in England seems to have fallen to a low ebb of late years, says W. H. Taplin in Garden and Forest, reminds us that a very similar state of affairs prevails on this side of the ocean, for while attention is frequently called to the rapid increase in numbers and varieties contained in the various collections of orchids in the United States, in both private and commercial establishments, yet the fern collections in the same wide territory that are worthy of special mention, may perhaps be counted on the fingers of one hand. Now this is not intended to imply that the orchids are not worthy of all the publicity that has been given them, but merely as a statement of fact, and though fine ferns are seen at some of the exhibitions, it must be conceded that they are somewhat scattered.

While there is no doubt that the use of small ferns in floral arrangements has very largly increased during a few years past, and that in consequence they have been grown by thousands in a number of commercial places, yet the species and varieties so grown are very few, being limited to some of those easily propagated and rapid growing sorts that require but little special attention. In fact a list of a dozen to fifteen names would comprise those most used in this way, and might read as follows: Adiantum cuneatum, A. pubescens, A. gracillimum, and in smaller quantities, A. Farleyense, Pteris serrulata and P. serrulata cristata, P. Cretica and its varieties, P. argyræa, P. tremula, Onychium Japonicum, Davallia tenuifolia stricta, Aspidium Belangeri, Doryopteris palmata and Nephrodium Sieboldii. Occasionally a batch of Lygodium Japonicum is seen grown on the same plan as Myrsiphyllum asparagoides (that is, on strings for wreathing), but this is usually in limited quantities.

It would, however, be quite an easy task for any fern lover to compile quite a long catalogue of distinct species that may readily be grown in cool-house temperature (about forty-five degrees at night) and in a house so located as not to be entirely satisfactory for the cultivation of flowering plants. In such a house may be grown a number of different types, from moderately developed tree ferns down to such charming miniature ferns as Davallia parvula and D. alpina.

Among the larger growing species specially adapted to cool-house culture may be mentioned some of the Alsophilas, as A. australis, A. excelsa and A. Capensis, all of these being noble species and of vigorous growth. Dicksonia antarctica is an indispensable sort for this purpose, being highly ornamental either in a small plant, or when it has attained its full development, and presents a massive trunk twenty feet or more in height, and possibly one foot in diameter. Dicksonia squarrosa and D. Youngiæ are also admirable species, and somewhat smaller-growing than the foregoing. Dicksonia Baronetz is another valuable fern of strong growth, though not arborescent in habit. This plant throws up its dark green bipinnate fronds to a height of five to six feet, the fronds being freely produced from a very hairy decumbent rhizome.

In this genius is also to be found one of the handsomest large ferns in in cultivation. Dicksonia Schiedei, with long pendulous fronds, which sometimes attain a length of twelve to fifteen feet. The fronds are bipinnate, light green in color, and glaucous on the under side, and the stipes and crown of the plant being densely covered with silky hairs adds much to its attractiveness. Brainea insignis, the only member of its genus, and a native of China, is also a valuable addition to any cool-house collection. It is of moderate growth, the fronds averaging from two to three feet in length, and is said to develop a trunk four or five feet high, though there are probably but few of that size in cultivation, its growth of trunk being very slow. Woodwardia radicans and W. orientalis are very easily-grown cool-house species, the former being especially graceful in habit, its long pendulous fronds hanging down like a delicate green drapery, and, in a good specimen, frequently attains a length of six to eight feet. Another interesting point in connection with this fern is the proliferous habit of its fronds, the young plants being produced in quantity on the upper surface of the frond. A number of the Pteris and Asplenium are also suited to this purpose, prominent among the former being Pteris serrulata, an excellent fern either as a specimen or for cutting, though it has one drawback in being partly deciduous in the winter.

The well known Pteris argyræa and P. serrulata in its many forms are too widely distributed to need further recommendation at this time. It may be added that the large-growing ferns to which attention has been invited will also be found of great futility as out-door ornaments in summer, providing they are placed in a somewhat sheltered and shaded position and well supplied with water.

POULTRY TOPICS.

Incubator-hatched chicks do not require food until twenty-four hours after they are hatched. Keep them in a comfortably warm brooder away from light or drafts.

Wide-awake farmers own pure-bred fowls, which cost no more to feed, and the ratio of profit is greater than with barnyard stock. Why should not every farmer do so? Better test this matter thoroughly this spring. Experience will certainly prove its wisdom.

The incubator that was started early this year is turning out the little downy chicks by hundreds. This means, with good management, a lot of early spring broilers at double the value of later hatched. It pays to be first in the market with the few, rather than be one of the late fellows and lose the cream of the profits.

Those who have never raised ducks do not know that ducklings grow much faster than chicks, and come at a time when the best prices for chicks have passed. Ducks will lay, at least, one hundred and forty eggs a year, and will begin when six months old. The Pekin is a creamy white, by many considered the best for the farmer, being hardy and of good size—dressing, when in market condition, to meet the most exacting tastes.

Many country dwellers have never thought of raising fruit and poultry in the same yard. They work admirably together. A row of plum or pear trees can be planted along the poultry run, when the choice is made of a location for the poultry buildings. The droppings from the fowls improve the soil about the trees, and the chickens will eat the wormy and curculio-stung fruit when it drops to the ground. There is nothing better for the chickens, and for the trees.

Setting hens must have attention. One is liable to forget that warm weather brings lice. A clean nest is the first requisite. If the nest-box is well oiled with kerosene and the hen thoroughly dusted with Buhach insect powder, there will be no lice. This means a quiet, steady sitter, the result of which will be a good hatch. The hen, after she is about to leave the nest with her brood, should be dusted with the insect powder again. Chicks hatched by an incubator are very seldom troubled with lice. This is one good point in favor of artificial hatching and means steady growth, bringing them into marketable condition earlier, and at the time when good prices prevail.—American Agriculturist.

A FEARFUL FATE.

A Shasta County Man Eaten by California Lions.

Redding Democrat, February 15.

News reached town yesterday of the fearful fate of Peter Tinkham, of Trinity Center. He was superintending the Red Hill ditch. About two weeks ago he went out along the ditch. Not returning that evening, the next morning, friends hunted him up. They soon found his gum boots, and all that was left of him, in the boots. He had been pounced upon and devoured by California lions. The tracks in the snow where the boots were found indicated lions. The feet and legs to the knee were in the boots, and all that could be found of his remains.

Toledo, O., Jan. 10, 1887.

Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most 40 years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings on the glands of the neck; causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" and fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption, and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula or impure blood, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Every spring my wife and children have been troubled with scrofula, sores breaking out on them in various places. My little boy, three years old, has been a terrible sufferer. Last spring he was one mass of sores from head to feet. I was advised to use Hood's Sarsaparilla, and we have all taken it. The result is that all have been cured of the scrofula, my little boy being entirely free from sores, and all four of my children look bright and healthy." W. E. ATHERTON, Passaic City, N. J.

THE OLDEST INHABITANT FOUND.

A Continuous Residence in East Oakland from 1850 to the Present Time.

An extremely pleasant hour was recently spent by the writer in an interview with E. F. Patten, of East Oakland, writes "M. S." in the San Francisco Call. Instructive it was, as well as interesting, for the gentleman in question, who is now 94 years old, was the first man to put up a house in that portion of Alameda county now known as East Oakland, formerly Brooklyn, and from the time he settled there up to the present the venerable gentleman has never been further from his home than to Lake Tahoe.

Mr. Patten came to this country from the State of Maine in the summer of 1849 with his two brothers, Edward, who died in 1852, and William, who still lives at the age of 92, with him. William is now a widower, although he has been married three times, his last wife being a sister of Henry Nagel, a prominent and highly respected gentleman of Oakland.

It was on the last day of February, 1850 that R. F. Patten crossed the bay from San Francisco and landed at the primitive San Antonio Landing, where he met Antonia Maria Peralta, and negotiated for 240 acres of land. The bargain was bound at once, and Mr. Patten immediately began the erection of his house, which he named "Rose Cottage," and which is still standing on block S, between Fourth and Fifth avenues. It is now owned by Moses Chase, who has added so many modern improvements that even the oldest inhabitant would never be able to recognize it as the "Rose Cottage" of forty years ago. When Mr. Patten put up his little homestead there was not another white man anywhere near, and all the country round about was covered with wild oats, through which cattle, as dangerous as grizzly bears, roamed at their own sweet will. But the Mexicans would come at night and shoot them down, and in the morning take them off from the San Antonio landing to the market across the bay, where beef found a ready sale at high figures.

Mr. Patten made hay of the fields of waving oats, baled it and sent it to market, where it brought $80 per ton. In 1853 the ground was surveyed, cut up in town lots and put on the market, which formed the start of a beautiful city, which each of her citizens may well be proud of. It was also in 1853 that the first school house was built by H. W. Carpentier, whose first teacher was a Miss Jaynes. But the house has long since been sold to the colored people, who changed it into a church.

In answer as to how the two old gentlemen spend their time, the elder Mr. Patten said: "My brother spends much of his time in painting, a study that he took up when he was 70 years of age. These are some of his works," he continued, as he waved his hand toward a number of good-sized oil paintings which are hanging on the walls, paintings which would do credit to some well-known artist.

"And for your own time, how do you manage to put that in?"

"Oh, I enjoy my meals, and spend a good portion of the time in reading. You see there are so many daily papers to look over, if one wants to keep up with the news of the day."

"Your health is still good, is it not?"

"Yes, I am a well man—there is nothing the matter with me but old age, and that I cannot help. There is no getting over that, you see."

"Do you walk around much?"

"Yes; I like to look around me at the town that was once nothing but farming land. Why, I have noted the progress of East Oakland just from the beginning, when it was only in a state of nature. I have seen every house go up. I can well remember the first house that was built after mine. Then came the second and the third, and soon they began to appear by the dozens, and now they are coming by the hundreds."

In taking leave, the writer referred again to Mr. Peralta, and Mr. Patten said: "Yes, he was a good, generous man, appreciated and honored by all who knew him. He lived just beyond Fruit Vale, but has now been dead some fifteen or twenty years."

As the writer passed out, the front door was opened by a kindly-faced matron, who said, in low, gentle tones: "You might add, that if there is a good, kind, generous man in all Oakland, it is R. F. Patten."

Osborn Congelton's Lecture.

Last evening the brilliant lecturer and journalist, Osborn Congelton of Philadelphia delivered a spicy and interesting lecture in Hamilton Hall, Thirteenth and Jefferson. A mistake in not advertising that the lecture was in the upper hall had prevented many from finding the place, and in consequence the audience was not large. It was decided, however, to give another lecture tonight at the same place. The audience was so well-pleased that they voted unanimously to hear Mr. Congelton again tonight. These lectures are free, and are given by the Sons of Temperance.

Infection Abont.

Two cases of typhoid fever have been reported to the Health Office, one at 727 Filbert street and the other at 1824 Williams street.

Measles prevails at 754 Sixteenth street.

Want the Grade Fixed.

A petition has been filed with the City Clerk asking to have the official grade of Valdaz street, East Oakland, fixed.

INCREASING THE FACTORY.

Proposed Extension of Business of the Wentworth Company.

At a meeting of the directors of the Wentworth Boot and Shoe Company in San Francisco last Thursday, a proposed increase of capital was discussed, and, from what has been learned, it is quite likely that the capital will be materially increased, the purpose being to enable the factory to work to its full capacity. At present there are only a few men employed and these have but two or three days' work each week. At the some time the factory is capable of employing from 150 to 200 operatives. In speaking of the matter, J. M. Wentworth, president of the company, has said that it is the desire of the company to see whether or not the people of Oakland and the surrounding towns are willing to patronize a home industry. To do this it is intended to enlist more capital into the company, so that it may operate not only the local trade, but also be able to carry the country merchants and the dealers in interior towns, who have to buy goods on long time. According to Mr. Wentworth, this will be accomplished before very long.

Virtue of Red Underwear.

Interview with a St. Louis Doctor.

The popular belief in the sanitary efficacy of red underwear is a clinging superstition, nothing more. Red was in ancient times considered a potent charm against the evil eye. At one time in the sixteenth century when the evil eye was esteemed to be especially triumphant in England, there was a boom in red tape which it has never since experienced. Many people to this day believe that a red string worn about the neck is a sure preventive of asthma, measles and mumps. The relics of this old faith are today best preserved in the great confidence which obtains in the medical virtues of red flannel, and a not so widespread belief that the milk of a red cow is better than that of any other cow. As to red flannel it has the single merit over other colors, that the dyeing material used destroys all vestige of animal life in the wool, and that red flannel will not shrink as white flannel does.

ILLEGALLY ANNEXED.

That is What the Courts may Decide in the Adams Suit.

Vernon Heights has been illegally annexed! The city of Oakland is not entitled to the territory recently taken within her bounds and the city tax collectors will have to refund the thousands of dollars collected from the people in that territory. If this is the decision to be rendered by the courts in the suit of Edson Adams against the city, the city of Oakland will be retarded in its growth and the councilman who was to be at large in that district will never roam through the corridors of Oakland's municipal building. There will then be only one way to get that territory annexed to Oakland, and that is, to have it brought in by the Peoples Express and Transfer Company which checks baggage to all parts of the United States from your residence, besides doing a general express business. Telephone 326. Office 423 Tenth street.

A QUESTION WELL ANSWERED.

In What Respect Is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Better Than Any Other?

WE WILL TELL YOU.

It is the only remedy that will liquify the tough, tenacious mucus and render it easy to expectorate.

It is the only remedy that will cause the expulsion of mucus from the air cells of the lungs.

It is the only remedy that will counteract the effect of a severe cold, and greatly mitigate if not effectually cure the cold within one day's time. To do this it must be used as soon as the first symptoms of the cold appear.

It has been clearly shown in thousands of instances, that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment.

It is the only remedy that will invariably prevent croup, which makes it one of the most valuable medicines yet discovered in this or any other country.

It is the only remedy that has cured thousands of cases of croup without a single failure.

It is the only remedy that will prevent all dangerous consequences from whooping cough.

It is pleasant and safe to take. There is not the least danger in giving it to children in large and frequent doses, which are always required in cases of croup and sometimes for whooping cough. As a proof of this we refer to Mr. John F. Olson of Des Moines Iowa, whose eighteen months old boy drank the entire contents of a 50 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the least injury. Certainly I made the baby vomit very freely; but after taking a nap he would have been glad to have drank another bottle of the remedy, as he liked it. For sale by Kirkland & Trowbridge, 973 Broadway.

Notice.

The following resolutions have been adopted, February 3rd 1890, by Oakland Union No. 36, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, to take effect on and after May 1st, 1890.

(1st) Resolved, That on and after May 1st, 1890, eight (8) hours shall constitute a day's work of all members of Oakland Union.

(2d) Resolved, That we will lend our hearty support to all shops and planing mills, who shall adopt the same hours of labor for a day's work on the above date.

Adopted Feb. 17th, 1890.

(3rd) Resolved, That no member of this Union be allowed to put up any mill work that is not manufactured in an eight hour shop. Such mill work to include window frames, moldings, cornice and bracket work, inside and outside finish, doors, windows and blinds. Any violation of this act will be subject to fine, suspension or expulsion at the discretion of the Union.

(4th) Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the daily papers together with resolutions declaring eight hours a work day.

(5th) Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to all the planing mills and factories in Oakland, San Francisco, Alameda and Berkeley.

Adopted February 3rd and 17th, respectively.

PUT IT THERE!

Opinions as to the Best Post Office Location,

SHOULD WE GET THE APPROPRIATION

Some Want It in One Place, Some in Another, With a General Tendency Northward.

The United States Senate having passed the bill appropriating $200,000 for a post office in Oakland, and there being at least a reasonable probability that Mr. McKenna will be able to work the appropriation through the House, the question now arises, "If we get the $200,000, where shall we put the building?"

The question was asked by a TRIBUNE reporter to-day, of such "leading citizens" as he happened to meet in the race. The replies indicate a general trend of preference toward a location somewhere in the vicinity of the City Hall and present Postoffice.

MAYOR JOHN P. GLASCOCK favored the one where the city hall park now is. He believes in pushing Washington street through to San Pablo avenue at an obtuse angle, moving the present city hall, erecting a handsome and substantial city hall building where the free library and engine house now are, and putting the postoffice on the triangle formed by Washington and Fourteenth street and San Pablo avenue. As to the legal possibilities of the matter, he was not prepared to give an opinion, and with his preference expressed a regret at giving up any of the city's breathing holes.

FRED L. BUTTON shared the Mayor's views as to site and disposition of the city hall. He said, however, that the park, if sold at all, would have to be knocked down to the highest bidder.

FRED S. STRATTON—I suppose that Fourteenth and Broadway is about the most central site, but I am in favor of putting the Postoffice where it will help something. Put it in the Sixth ward.

H. SCHELHAAS—Somewhere near the junction of Fourteenth street and Broadway. I suppose there'll be a big fight over it, though.

EX-MAYOR CHARLES D. PERCE—There's Hutchinson's lot at the corner of Fourteenth and Washington streets—that is a fine location. I understand it can be bought for $70,000. Then there's a lot on Fourteenth and Jefferson. That may be a little out of the center today, but no further out than the Postoffice was when it went up from Ninth to Fourteenth street. The McDonough lot at Fourteenth and Broadway is a good site, and so is the Nordhausen property at Seventeenth street and San Pablo avenue.

H. O. THOMPSON—The southeast corner of Tenth and Broadway. That Blake & Moffitt property will be divided up and sold. I think it could be had for $1000 a front foot. I am told that John S. Drum offered his corner, at Eleventh and Broadway, for that about a year ago.

JOHN MARSH favored the City Hall Park site, the moving eastward of the City Hall, and the extension of Washington street.

COUNCILMAN BROSNAHAN—The Sixth Ward.

COUNCILMAN EVANS—The old J. Ross Browne block, where the Christian Brothers' College is. That is, between Fourth, Fifth, Jackson, and Madison streets. It is convenient to four sections, is the most central location in Oakland, is an off-set to the Playter block, and could probably be had for $50,000.

GEORGE E. DE GOLIA—There's the Sheltering Home lot, 75 by 25 feet, at the corner of Ninth and Franklin streets. I think it could be had for $20,000.

FRANK BROOKS, Cashier of the California Bank and Trust Company—Northward the Star of Empire takes its way. The city has reached its limit of growth on the south. There is no limit to its northward extension. So the postoffice should be somewhere north of its present site.

GILBERT TOMPKINS—Just north of McDonough's new hotel on Broadway.

SUPERVISOR BROWN—Not on the city hall property. If the railroad tracks were off the lot across Broadway from the Playter block that would be a good location.

J. FIRCH—The Nordhauser lot at Seventeenth and San Pablo. That could be had for about $40,000. It isn't big enough but adjoining property could be purchased.

EX-SHERIFF JEREMIAH TYRRELL—Up on my lot corner of Market and Sixteenth streets. Everybody wants it on his corner, doesn't he?

ALBERT BROWN—The City Hall lot.

V. H. METCALF—A block away from the main street. The Hutchinson corner is a good one.

E. B. POMEROY—Somewhere about Fourteenth and Broadway. That is the center of town, and the Postoffice should be near the center.

POSTMASTER HANNA was reluctant to express an opinion, but said it should be located near the center of business, and on a lot where it could have both front and rear entrances. Some time ago he sent certain data to Washington on which the appropriation might be based, but he had not favored any particular lot or locality. "There couldn't be a meaner place than this building where we are now," he said, "but that is nothing against the locality."

CITY TREASURER Z. T. GIFFIN—Right out there, on the City Hall lot, is the most convenient place, though I'd really rather see it continued as a park. I don't believe the city could convey it to the Federal Government.

DEPUTY TREASURER JOHN HAMILTON—With all the prospects of growth and annexation, the postoffice should be located out about Twenty-second or Twenty-third street somewhere.

HON. M. C. CHAPMAN—Push the City Hall over, extend Washington street, and build the postoffice on what is left of the City Hall park.

JUDGE F. W. HENSHAW coincided with Mr. Chapman, and thought a magnificent building should be erected. He had not looked into the legal aspects of a transfer from the city to the general government.

CITY ENGINEER MORGAN favored the City Hall lot or the Playter block.

CITY ATTORNEY JOHNSON laughingly referred to the advantages of his lot at the corner of Eighth avenue and East Fourteenth street, and then said that the City Hall lot would be the best location in the city. He could not say whether the city could dispose of the property in any event, but if it could do so it would have to be at public auction to the highest and best bidder.

J. J. HANIFIN—Somewhere north of Fourteenth street. The city is extending in that direction.

E. A. HEROX thought that the McDonough property at Fourteenth and Broadway could be secured. Other Broadway property was not for sale. He thought that a site at Fourteenth and Franklin streets would offer advantages, and hardly believed that James Hutchinson could be induced to sell his Fourteenth and Franklin street lot.

W. B. HANDY—Not on Broadway. That would make the land take too much of the appropriation. There should be more land than the building will occupy at once, to leave room for extensions to meet the city's growing needs.

H. B. SNELL—Somewhere near the present postoffice.

W. G. HENSHAW—Within a stone's throw of where the postoffice now is. Mr. Henshaw rather preferred a site somewhere near Fourteenth and Washington streets. In discussing the cost of a building, he said that the Blake & Moffitt structure at the corner of Eighth street and Broadway cost $80,000, and that even if $125,000 were paid for a site, it would leave a balance (provided $300,000 were appropriated) sufficient to erect a very handsome postoffice.

D. W. KIRKLAND—I have just been talking that matter over with County Treasurer Huff, and we agreed that the postoffice should go somewhere east of Broadway. There are good sites at Twelfth and Webster and Twelfth and Harrison streets.

J. WEST MARTIN favored some site not far from Fourteenth and Broadway. The City Hall lot would be, in his opinion, a splendid location, but he had some doubts as to the city's power to dispose of it.

In the meantime the Lower House of Congress may clip the wings of the appropriation, or kill it altogether. Mayor Glascock, who has been there, says that the Senate is always more inclined to be liberal than the House. A little public agitation might do some good just at this stage of the matter.

Necrology.

The companions in the office of the Morning Times of the late Ferdinand Schleuter have sent resolutions of sympathy to the bereaved parents.

Peter Emery died suddenly of consumption yesterday at 1312 Grove street, at the age of 35 years.

Hannah Norris of 668 Sixteenth street died Thursday evening, at the age of 67 years.

The dead body of P. E. Emory, a laborer residing at 1312 Grove street, was found in bed yesterday morning at 7 o'clock and Undertaker Albert Brown was summoned to take charge of the funeral. He did not learn that the case was one for investigation by the Coroner until late in the afternoon and then Coroner Evers was summoned to hold an inquest. The jury decided that death was the result of consumption. The deceased was a native of Prince Edward's Island and leaves a widow and two children.

Richard Young died this morning at 714 Eleventh street. He was 29 years of age and had resided in Oakland since 1883.

A San Francisco Suit Brought to Public Notice by an Attachment Served Here.

Sheriff Hale this afternoon went out to the Oakland Trotting Park and attached the $10,000 stallion "Memo," by order of the Superior Court of San Francisco. The attachment is made on behalf of the plaintiff in the suit of Ernest C. Stock against James P. Kerr to recover the sum of $25,000.

Ernest C. Stock is the managing editor of the San Francisco Call. James P. Kerr is nominally the proprietor of the Breeder and Sportsman, and for many years was cashier of the Call. His partner in the Breeder and Sportsman is John White, who was for twenty years business manager of the Call. White recently lost his position and an investigation was made of his accounts. The Examiner printed an item that he was reported to be short $25,000.

THE GIRL IN THE CIGAR STORE.

Mr. Day Explains the Fact of Her Employment.

Samuel J. Day, proprietor of the cigar store at the corner of Seventh and Washington streets, makes a complete statement of the facts of the employment by him of a young girl at his cigar store. The girl formerly was employed, with her father's consent, in a restaurant kept by Mr. Day, who subsequently opened the cigar store, and the girl was left in his charge by her father, who went to Los Angeles. She assisted Mr. Day, for a time, by attending the store when he went to meals or was called away on business. She is now employed in a private family. Mr. Day had no knowledge of any investigation by the the representatives of the Woman's Rescue Home into the facts of her employment, and naturally deems they have caused him and the girl unnecessary and unpleasant notoriety by making public statements which, upon proper investigation they would have found to be utterly untruthful. Mr. Day denies that he took the girl away from the place where she had been boarding, when he learned that an investigation was in progress. She had obtained employment, and left the house before he had any knowledge that any investigation was held. He deems that the officious people who made the false statement public, have done great harm to the girl.

INSANE ON THE TRAIN.

A Maniac Who Was Not a Pleasant Traveling Companion.

When the Central Pacific overland arrived at the pier this morning Police Officer Rand's attention was drawn to a young dark-haired man who was standing on the platform of one of the cars, staring wildly about with glassy eyes. The officer, on obtaining further particulars, took the arrival into custody, and with the complaining citizen proceeded to to the city prison in the patrol wagon.

There the arrested man gave his identity as Michael Welch, aged 27, of Boston, and walked nervously up and down, while Citizen Lucy, who had summoned the officer, told the story of the affair. He said that he had journeyed from Boston, and that Welch occupied the same coach as he from the outset. While passing through Kansas three days ago Welch, who had been drinking slightly, suddenly said good by to everyone in the car and, walking to the platform, attempted to jump from the moving train. He was seized in time, however, and brought back inside, where he subsided after making two or three vain attempts for liberty. Then he started throwing his money about and kept up some antics other until the Sierra Nevadas was reached, where during a wait in the snowsheds, he made his escape from the train. It was only after a diligent search that he was found behind a snowbank, and he was taken back to the train and kept under strict surveillance until his arrival here this morning.

The prisoner was taken to the county jail, where he will be held for examination by the Lunacy Commissioners.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Notes From the Congregations of Oakland and Vicinity.

At the Sunday school of the First Congregational Church last Sunday the number in attendance was 672, of whom 435 were at the morning service. Sixty-three visitors in the main room remained during the opening exercises. There were nineteen members in the orchestra. The opening overture was an arrangement of Lysberg's "La Fontaine," and was beautifully played. Three Bibles were presented by the pastor to scholars presenting an unbroken record of fifty-two consecutive Sundays' attendance at church. At the close of the service the regular monthly prayer meeting of teachers and scholars were held, led as usual by the pastor. The main Sunday school average attendance during February was 550; church, 379; offering for the month, $78 24. The Twenty-second and Market branch, average attendance, 114; church, 31; offering for the month, $9 47. Good Will branch, average attendance, 150; church, 57; Bible readers, 36; offering for the month, $13 65. Total average attendance at Sunday school, 844; church, 467; total offering for the month, $110 35.

Three people were received by letter into the Congregational church of Alameda on Sunday last.

Sunday last was communion Sunday at the Second Congregational church. Six were received to membership, five of them by letter. Six were also received to the church at the communion in January. Dr. Bothwell preached a sermon to young people, as he is accustomed to do once every month, a boys' choir of some twenty leading the music.

Rev. L. N. Early, who has been filling Rev. George W. Sweeney's pulpit at the Christian Church since his departure for the Continent, has been called East. The congregation has adopted resolutions expressing regret at his departure and commending him for his acceptable service. Mr. Sweeney, at last accounts, was in Rome, whence he will go to Athens and thence to Palestine. He will return to Oakland in June.

Archbishop Riordan will officiate at the dedicatory services of the Sacred Heart Church at Temescal tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. Many clergymen from Oakland and San Francisco will participate in the ceremonies.

The Methodist Episcopal Church South has never had a place of worship in Alameda. C. C. City of East Oakland and George W. Shreeve of Alameda, both in business in San Francisco, have inaugurated a movement for a church there, and have secured as pastor Rev. Presley B. Smith of Baltimore. Services will be held in Park Hall, on Park street, at 11 o'clock on Sunday, and the attendance of those interested is requested.

SUNDAY MEETINGS.

Spiritual Circle of Harmony at 2:30 o'clock, in Shattuck Hall, corner Eighth street and Broadway. All are invited to participate. At 7:30 o'clock, in the same hall, Mrs. A. M. Whitmore will lecture on the relation of the spiritual to the material universe. Everybody invited.

The Theosophical Society will be addressed tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Synagogue, corner of Clay and Thirteenth street, by Mrs. Annie Wolf (Emily), President of Krishna Branch Theosophical Society, of Philadelphia. Subject, "The Ethics of Theosophy," followed by answers to questions. All are invited.

The Criminals' Cause Gay.

The old-time proposition of changing the entrance of the City Prison from the front to the west side of the City Hall is again being stirred up, and this time it is thought that something will be done in the matter. It is known that by the new arrangement an automatic gate can be placed in the stone fence which will be opened and closed by the wheels of the patrol wagon, thus making the receipt and delivery of prisoners much easier and less obnoxious than at present.

It Will Fall Through.

City Electrician Carleton's scheme to connect the High school with the fire engine house by a network of wires, does not meet with much favor in the eyes of the Board of Education. By the innovation an immediate expenditure of $425 would be necessary, and it is thought that the mechanism would frequently get out of order and entail more expense. Then again, the insurance companies decline to give lower rates if the protection is added to the building.

Capital Packing Company.

The Capital Packing Company has been incorporated, to deal in fruits, vegetables and fish, and carry on a general canning and packing business. The capital stock is $60,000, all of which has been subscribed by the following: Louis B. Parrott, Edgar A. Cowen, Edgar B. Carroll, W. F. Beck, Alfred H. Cohen, Robert Hicknott, Mary I. Gould and R. N. Simpson. The directors are: Louis B. Parrott, Edgar A. Cohen, Edgar B. Carroll, W. F. Beck and Alfred H. Cohen.

Sidewalks on Sixth Avenue.

The ninety days allowed by the city in which property owners on Sixth avenue may put down cement sidewalks by private contract is nearly at an end. One owner on the east side of the avenue, between East Sixteenth and East Seventeenth streets, has laid a five-foot walk, whereas the ordinances require a six-foot walk.

A Testimonial to Miss Kennedy.

A substantial testimonial is being prepared by the teachers of this city for Miss Kate Kennedy in recognition of the hard and successful fight she made for position and salary, which resulted also in a decision that will be a safeguard to all teachers against political machinations. Owing to Miss Kennedy's failing health, the testimonial is well timed.

The Thirtieth Street Sewer.

The Street Superintendent's department has completed the assessment for the sewer in Thirtieth street, from West to Grove. The figures foot up to $607 70, or at the rate of 43 cents for each front foot of the property taxed for the sewer.

A Lucky Beggar.

There being no complainant against William Clark for begging, his case was, this morning, dismissed. A similar charge against Joe Kelley was continued to Monday.

Will Hear It Later.

The first of the lottery cases was called this morning, the defendant being Mrs. A. Heine. It was continued, however, until May 24th.

A Posthumous Heir Expected.

Colonel J. Mervyn Donahue's will is likely to be affected by the birth of a posthumous heir.

THE DEATH RECORD.

March 6th—Sarah McLaughlin, aged 4; place of residence, 1117 Eighth avenue; cause of death, convulsions.

March 6th—Hannah Morris aged 67; place of residence, 668 Sixteenth street; cause of death, diabetes mellitus.

March 7th—Peter Emery, aged 37; place of residence, 1312 Grove street; cause of death, consumption.

Two little girls, aged 3 months each, of unknown parentage, died at the Sheltering Home, at 973 Campbell street, on the 4th inst.

THE BIRTH RECORD.

March 5th—Male child, to Mr. and Mrs. J. Dunstan of 1014 Telegraph avenue.

MILLET'S MASTERPRICE.

Its Value Depends on the Critics Point of View

Chicago Inter Ocean.

Before Millet's celebrated painting of the "Angelus"—when on exhibition at the American Art Gallery in New York—there was gathered one afternoon a variety of critics—at least they were critical, for they assumed not only the right to an opinion, but the freedom to express it.

A little apart from the group there stood a silent young girl, who had become entirely absorbed in the painting before her.

A pink flush had mounted to her pale cheeks. Her lips were slightly parted. In her dark eyes there shone a holy light, as though she had caught from the picture an atmosphere of prayer.

A decided contrast to the simple manner of this girl was that of a flashily dressed woman of the world. She took a vulgar pleasure in displaying her ignorance, and in an impatient voice exclaimed, "I can't make anything out of it! What does it all mean?"

"Well, you see," replied her companion, a woman of her own stamp, "it was the custom in those days to ring a bell at a certain time and then they all threw down their work and began to pray. They had the bell rung so they'd know when to begin. I suppose the bell has just stopped ringing."

"Have you heard the story about this picture?" asked a New York man as he sauntered by with a stylishly dressed companion. "No! Well an old farmer came in here one day and mistaking the name there for 'The Angiers,' looked at it critically for awhile and then exclaimed, 'Well I can't see anything so remarkable in a man and woman digging for fair.' Hem! Good joke, wasn't it?" And the two laughed so heartily over it that many of the others joined in the laugh.

"Oh I never cared for Millet, and this 'Angelus' I do think is the worst thing he has done yet." It was a would-be artist who spoke.

"I can't agree with you Jack," replied his companion, "I look upon the 'Angelus' as his masterpiece. To my mind it is grand, magnificent! Why, 'The Sower' is only the farmer, purely material. In this there is soul. Ah, this has a finer sentiment. It is full of rest and peace."

"You always were an enthusiast," was the cutting rejoinder, "but you overlook the 'Execution,'" and then followed a spirited discussion, in which were heard such expressions as "That line in the foreground" * * "Faulty in the extreme," "The light? why it is altogether too strong; the figures are nearly lost in the glare," "Just like all Millet's work—a few out-lines of paint and then a daub to fit it in."

"It can't compare with our engraving at home," piped the shrill voice of a tall woman who carried a hand bag on her arm, while a little man in front flashed a withering glance upon the woman who would prefer a copy to the original.

"Well, there's something in that," was the reply of her companion. "The lights are better in the engraving," while she two came under the fierce expression of contempt.

"Do you see how carefully it's thought out?" said a kindly critic. "There is the row of potatoes that hasn't been touched yet. That last row has been hoed, and there is a hill where only a part of the potatoes have been taken out. They stopped working just there."

"Paris green? Look for potato—what. Hey? What's that you say?" enquired a deaf but inquisitive old man.

"That's a queer-looking gown that woman has on. Do you suppose it was the style in those days?" asked a short but consequential individual, and as he did so he gave his companion a nudge in the ribs while he chuckled over his own joke.

Such rapturous exclamations as "beautiful!" "fine!" magnificent" "isn't it lovely?" were heard on every side. "Goodness, how small it is!" gasped an eager-looking man who undoubtedly came to see sights, with a preference for quantity rather than quality.

A Beautifully-Decorated Residence.

Woodland Mail.

On Friday a Mail reporter called at the elegant residence of A. D. Porter on Main street, to see the artistic fresco work now being placed upon its inner walls and ceilings.

Upon entering the hall one is agreeably impressed with the beautiful work. A blue sky is a background for a trellis work covered with a perspective foliage, the tints of which are very natural. The parlor is a poem of beauty. The panel represents a lace canopy occupying the center of the ceiling, which is drawn back at the corners and secured by ornaments in relief. The style represents a balustrade with a profusion of delicate flowers gracefully trailing about. Upon one side wall is a deep frieze beautiful in design and execution, a sky effect, with drapery drawn back, exposing to view beautiful vases of flowers. The harmonious coloring of this room is particularly noticeable. Leading from the parlor is the sitting room. One is attracted by the material change in design. The coloring is of cream and lakes. Upon the chimney breast is a scene representing a flight of swallows, with a landscape in the distance. The panel is a canopy which is held by golden rods and ribbons, the effect of which is modest, yet pleasing. From under this canopy are some beautifully-executed flowers—Marshalniel, tea and La France roses—sustained by a delicate, golden lattice. The frieze represents drapery carelessly hung upon golden rods.

Adjoining this room is the dining-room, the design of which is very attractive. The panel has an atmospheric effect, with autumnal grape foliage, extending around the room, sustained by a golden fence. Outside of this is a rich border, in the corners of which are beautiful fruit pieces, which are characteristic of the room. Midway of these are some exquisite scenes with ornaments extending about the room. The frieze represents a scene with birds flying to and fro. The coloring is acrue and aeruenarine, the whole relieved with gold. The coloring of the library is extremely rich and harmonious. Upon the ceiling are library pieces representing Astronomy, Music, Mechanical and Fine Arts. The frieze is a very rich Moorish design, the whole relieved with gold. The decoration of this room is extremely beautiful.

The boudoir on the same floor is in blue. The decoration is in golden damask, with flowers and birds. Upon the second floor are the sleeping rooms, with a variety of designs, all equally attractive. The work is being done by the Boston Fresco Company.

Women Who Write for and Edit Journals.

THE FIFTH PAPER ON THE SUBJECT.

The Regular Contribution of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Mesdames Sara Langdon and Matilda Joslyn Gage edited with much power from 1875 to 1881 The Ballot Box and National Citizen. These women are possessed of a high order of talent, and their paper always showed great care and ability.

The Ægis, edited by Annie Laurie Quimby of Cincinnati, O., is also a strong paper devoted to women suffrage, and proves its editor to be a woman of great intellect. She deserves great commendation for her philanthropic work.

The Herald of Industry, published by Mrs. J. W. Stow of San Francisco, was a well edited journal devoted to the interests of women, dress reform, hygienic living, and social science, with a page devoted to co-operation.

Many other papers have sprung up to advocate this question of equal suffrage, among which was the Western Woman's Journal published by that generous soul, E. M. Correll of Hebron, Neb., and which did valiant service for woman suffrage in the campaign in Nebraska in 1882. That campaign developed a host of women journalists, chief among whom is Ada M. Brittenbinder, for years editor of the Osceola Record, and now a practicing attorney in Washington, D. C., and National Superintendent of the Legislative Department of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. She will ere, many years, bear the grave title of Judge.

Mrs. Clara Bewick Colby is another Nebraska woman journalist, having edited the Woman's Tribune at Beatrice, Neb., now removed to Washington, D. C. Her journal has a wide circulation, and is stirring up conservative opinions and forcing people to think. Mrs. Colby is a woman of intense energy and much thought, and will impress her work on the public. One of the most brilliant journalists of that State is Mrs. Harriet J. Brooks, who was connected several years with the Omaha Daily Republican, principally editing its home department, whose brain is as keen as her pen is potent. She never allowed the people of Nebraska to forget that their State motto, "Equality Before the Law," was a hollow mockery as long as equal suffrage was denied half her citizens. She has labored a lifetime in journalism, being a compeer of Susan B. Anthony, and her scientific researches are remarkable. She has labored assiduously for woman's ballot, and her ideas have been widely adopted.

Mrs. Esther T. Honish of Brattleboro, Vt., has edited, most ably, for a dozen years, Woman at Work. Many prominent writers contribute to its pages, and it has gained a large circulation. Its great aim is the industrial welfare of woman, but equal suffrage and prohibition are, also, openly advocated, while every phase of the woman question is discussed. Its creed shows how broad are the views of Mrs. Honish: "We believe reverently in Christianity, respectfully in man, devotedly in woman, lovingly in children; and that children need to be better cared for, woman better encouraged man better helped, and God better honored." Mrs. Honish is one of the National Workers of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and her magazine has a national reputation.

Helen M. Gougar, one of the most eloquent orators on the American platform, also edited Our Herald of Lafayette, Ind. She wields a pen of fire and steel for woman suffrage and prohibition, and her antagonists shrink from her caustic sarcasm and unanswerable arguments, while her wit flashes with the keenness of lightning. The Inter Ocean of Chicago sent Miss Gougar to Ireland to study the Home Rule question, and her letters to that journal thoroughly stirred the public. The lady is attractive, socially, as she is brilliant intellectually, and is in her own experience solving the vexed problem of woman's sphere.

The Alpha, whose motto, "The divine right of every child to be well born," explains its character, has been published for years in Washington, D. C., by Mrs. Caroline B. Winslow. Rev. Frederick Hinckley says: "Its chief work has been to enlighten men and women to the fact of prenatal influence, and to impress them with the sense of the responsibility of parentage." It discusses all questions relating to social purity and has wielded a wide influence over public morals. Dr. C. B. Winslow, its editor, is a woman of great intellect and decided views. Sensualism she considers the most deadly foe of the human race. She has opposed most strenuously the license system of the social evil prevalent in Europe, and delivered a most eloquent address on that subject at the Switzerland conference before many of the profoundest thinkers of both continents. Her work in this most noble reform has been patient and untiring. Her English coadjutors, Mrs. Josephine Butler, Social Purity Superintendent of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and Miss Ellice Hopkins, have written numberless newspaper articles and White Cross Leaflets, and did much to influence in his chivalric fight for the saving of women and little girls from legalized prostitution, that noble knight, William T. Stead, editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, who upon being asked whether women would probably do important work on the newspaper of the future, said: "Women in the future will take a more important part in everything. The question of the slaves was a great one, that of the emancipation of women is greater. In the lower callings of life—where there is the carrying of heavy weights and that sort of thing to be done—we see very little difference made between the sexes. It is only in the higher callings that there is better pay, that the difference comes in and women are barred out."

M. G. C. EDHOLM.

I NO LONGER SUFFER.

A Statement of Mrs. J. E. Hamilton.

With the following disease I suffered for six years. Coughing and rising pains through my chest and back, bloating, shortness of breath, headache, irregular appetite, restlessness at night, dizziness, week trembling spells, chills, cold hands and feet, constipation, weak eyes, and in every way my whole system was a complete wreck, and every doctor I called on claimed a different disease, until I was treated by Dr. Bluett, of 1009 Broadway, for indigestion and cured. Residence 504 Fifteenth street, rooms 26 and 27.

Reed's Turtle.

A turtle has been captured in Florida measuring three feet across his shell and the catch is attracting considerable attention because of the heiroglyphics carved on his back. An eminent professor from Yale College has interpeted these to mean that the turtle is bound for A. C. Reed's meat market at 17th street and Telegraph Avenue, Oakland, where the finest meats, fish and game are kept constantly on hand. The turtle will be shipped by express.

THE PASSING SHOW

The Grismers to Play a Week in Oakland.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR THE FUTURE.

Plays at the San Francisco Theaters —Frederick Warde at the Oakland Theater Tonight.

Frederick Warde, the tragedian, will play Richard III. at the Oakland Theater this evening.

The Grismer-Davies Company will begin a week's engagement at the Oakland Theater on Monday evening March 10th, including matinee Saturday.

During the time that has elapsed since the first regular season of the Grismer-Davies Company (eight years ago), the roster of the organization has exhibited many names of great prominence in theatrical circles, among the list appearing George Osbourne, L. R. Stockwell, who were members of one of the earlier season's companies; W. A. Brady, and George Webster, now prosperous managers, were with Mr. Grismer two years. Mr. Grismer's methods are similar to Augustin Daly's in the manner of conducting his rehearsals personally and interesting his company in the smaller details of the stage business.

In looking back at the strikingly interesting professional career of Phoebe Davies since her debut at the Baldwin Theater, San Francisco, her remarkable strength and versatility present themselves, in comparison with other great favorites who have had their day and dropped out of sight, while she has steadily improved and grown into the favor of the public. At the close of this season in San Francisco, which will open after their engagement at the Oakland Theater, the Grismers will make an Australian tour.

The organization is said to be stronger than ever this year.

The repertoire for the week will be as follows: Monday and Tuesday evenings, the great New York and San Francisco success, The Burglar, an original comedy drama in four acts, by Gus Thomas, founded on his sketch, "Editha's Burglar;" Wednesday and Thursday nights, the society melodrama, entitled The Tigress, a dramatization by Ramsy Morris of his own novel, "Crucify Her;" Friday evening, the beautiful and picturesque play, Forgiven, by Clay M. Greene; Saturday night, the modern melodrama, The World Against Her.

May Howard, called "the English Mind Reader and Medium," will appear again at the Oakland Theater next week.

San Francisco.

Sol Smith Russell, the pathetic comedian, can not so arrange his dates as to play in Oakland during his present tour. At the Baldwin The Poor Relation will be played only this week. Next week he will play Kidder's new farcical comedy, Bewitched.

The performance at the Bush Street Theater by Cleveland's Minstrels is very good, though without novelties. The old time comedians of the minetrel stage, Billy Rice and Willis P. Sweatnam, are exceedingly funny, as they always were. The Japanese acrobats give an interesting exhibition of athletics, equilibrism and juggling in substitution for the old time afterpiece, which was usually a horror.

Boccaccio will be continued at the Tivoli Opera House next week.

Splinters From the Boards.

Lily Post has left the Henderson Gondoliers.

Charles Drew has joined the Henderson Gondoliers.

Minnie Maddern will soon wed Harrison Grey Fiske, of the Mirror.

Betina Padelford is soon to marry Julian Rafael—that is, as soon as she can procure a divorce from her husband.

Mrs. Langtry has not made an overwhelming success of her production of As You Like It, at St. James' Theater. It is said she makes a very crude "Rosalind."

It is reported that Barnum is bringing 500 ballet girls to this country, and the Herald steps down from its intellectual perch long enough to say, editorially: "'Tis true 'tis P. T., and P. T. 'tis, 'tis true."

An English paper tells of an excited woman who, during the peformance of a melodrama, threw her bonnet at the "villain" on the stage, who was strangling one of the characters. The applause following her action was uproarious, the most coming from the man who sat immediately in the rear of the bonnet.

It is announced that the executors of the late Adam Forepaugh have sold the entire show plant and title to James E. Cooper. The show will be under the personal management of Adam Forepaugh Jr. and John Forepaugh, son and nephew of the deceased. It is further stated that Mr. Cooper outbid the English syndicate that had begun negotiating before Mr. Forepaugh's death.

The announcement that James O'Neill will next season present Henry Irving's production of The Dead Heart is of dramatic promise, and will be read with unusual interest by theater-goers everywhere. Mr. O'Neill stands easily at the front of romantic actors of this country, and in "Robert Landry" should find a most congenial role. The stage equipment of The Dead Heart will be most lavish, and about one hundred people will take part in the storming of the Bastile, and other stirring tableaux with which the play abounds.

Paris, which professes to lead the world in dramatic criticism, has the most corrupt press in Christendom. Beneath the veneer of critical pretension there lurks a magnitudinous venality, beside which the "counting-room influence" of our boundless West partakes of the innocuous innocence of the Methodist camp-meeting. The amount paid to the journalists for favorable notices by the Grand Opera management is reported to have aggregated $30,000 in one year. This season they ask for a larger share of the spoils on the ground that the Exposition caused the receipts to be greater!

The success of the Emma Juch Grand English Opera Company on the Pacific coast has been something phenomenal as to financial results. Manager J. Charles Davis, who is associated with Charles E. Locke in the direction of the tour, is enthusiastic over the new Northwest, which embraces the cities of Victoria, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, and Spokane, and predicts that they will become among the best amusement centers in the United States. Miss Juch has been cordially received everywhere, and the business has been of such a nature that Messrs. Locke and Davis are likely to clear $20,000 in the region above mentioned.

Alfred Thompson, who will bring to this country dancers for two great ballets for the new Madison Square Garden of New York, says: "I have selected the artists for the ballet in Buda Pesth, Vienna, Paris and London. They are not only good dancers, but beautiful girls, all under twenty-four years of age. The principal dancers are the best available—I can't name them yet. Several scenic novelties are to be produced, which are now in preparation. I have secured one of the best-known ballet masters in all Europe, and the music is now being written expressly for these works by a Parisian composer."

This season, it is the fad of the dramatic writers for the Western papers to run in a column or so of severe strictures on the bad taste of Mrs. Kendal's manager, in referring in his advertisements and announcements to the fact that Mrs. Kendal is a woman of unblemished reputation. To judge from the directness and the persistency of these statements, it might be supposed, prints the New York Mirror, very readily, that a categorical description of Mrs. Kendal's character and social graces, appeared on all posters, lithographs and handbills used in her business. A Chicago newspaper, not to be out of the fashion, contains one of these popular articles. "There is another item in Mrs. Kendal's prospectus," it blandly remarks, "—her good character. It has been whispered about by her boomers that she was one of the very few, if not the only, virtuous woman on the stage. This ought to stir up some of the self-respecting actresses of our stage, and make them come back at the Englishwoman." Mrs. Kendal denies having any part in this kind of advertising.

M'Ginty's Posthumous Romance.

Some say McGinty's back,
But I chance to know, black!
That they lie, beyond the shadow of a doubt;
For he's far beneath the sea,
Keeping steady company
With a mermaid fair, although a trifle stout.

This mermaiden's loves were legion—
Every merman in that region
Tried his best to be her steady Sunday beau:
But her heart was cold and flinty,
Till along came Dan McGinty,
And she weakened at his tender tale of woe.

When he told her of the songs
That detailed his many wrongs
She did tear her tresses green and loudly wail;
But as soon as he begun
With the jokes, her tear drops ran,
And she wiped them with the tip end of her tail.

So McGinty'll ne'er return—
Earthly loves he'll coldly spurn,
For he's happy now as man could ever be,
Bower'd with beauty he is spooning
While his dirge we're sadly crooning,
And McGinty dwells contented in the sea.

MARK TWAIN'S HAIR.

It Is Almost as Long as the Locks of Cody.

You know already that Mark Twain is humorous, especially with his pen and his tongue, says the New York correspondent of the Indianapolis News, but it is news to most readers that he is also very funny in personal appearance. Formerly, it was not so. At the outset of his career as a professional inciter of laughter, he had no unusual aspect, but was rather good looking. He has lately been in town a great deal, on account of the production of a play made from one of his books, and the figure which he presented to the first night audience, when he came in front of the curtain in response to their applause, was singular enough to be for a moment almost startling. Any unpainted face, unless it be deeply flushed, is sure to look ghastly in the glare of footlights, and so most of the unblushing playwrights and managers who respond to curtain calls have pallid faces. The conductor of one New York theater habitually makes up his face, like that of an actor, when he knows that he is going to show himself on his own stage. But Mark Twain did not commit that womanish folly, and so his visage was cadaverous to begin with. But more than that, he has let his hair grow long and wild. Perhaps that is a result of continuous residence in Hartford as a neighbor to a coterie of intensely literary folks. Anyhow, it is in strong contrast to the short-haired Mark Twain of Virginia City a quarter of a century ago. He has aged rather beyond his years, too, and has a peculiarly grizzled look. He had prepared himself for one of those elaborate imitations of an extemporaneous speaker, which have made him famous, and he strode out into the glare of light with an assumed awkwardness of gait and pose which intensified his highly original aspect to a degree of absolute grotesqueness. To those spectators who had never before seen him, and even people who had not observed him since his long-haired condition had set in, he was an astonishing sight. However, his quaint manner of hesitant utterance quickly made his address provocative of laughter, and he had his usual success as a humorous writer.

"L'Angelus."

(After Jean-Francois Millet.)

The faint bells chime athwart the low lit leas,
And the all the air is mellow with their sound;
With bowed, bared heads, upon the tillage ground,
Still as the sculptured marbles of old Greece,
Two toilers stand in reverent surcease,
With burdens laid aside, with bonds unbound,
Their humble brows, their heavy labors crowned
At eventide with sunset-gold and peace.
Shall not Death's music sweetly call to us?
All we who till our bare, unfruitful land,
Our fields bestrewn with stones and sterile sand,
For scanty harvests, poor and piteous;
Shall we not joyfully arise and stand
To hear the sound of our last Angelus?
—Graham R. Tomson in the Independent.

Offered the Pastor a Drink.

From the St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

An intoxicated man entered the Methodist church today during services, and passing up to the pulpit, offered the pastor, Rev. John Tressidder, a drink. The divine took the bottle and filed it away for future reference, while the intruder was run off to the calaboose.

FINE HORSES.

Purchases by Dr. J. P. H. Dunn, A. C. Henry, and Gilbert Tompkins.

At the clearance sale of standard trotters at the farm of Mrs. Silas Skinner, in Napa county, yesterday, a number of purchases were made by prominent Oakland people. The horses were all of high-class Kentucky stock.

Dr. J. P. H. Dunn paid $2000 for the bay mare, "Madonna," foaled in 1887 by Cassius M. Clay Jr., dam by Joe Downing.

A. C. Henry bought the brown mare, "Pansy," foaled in 1877 by Cassius M. Clay Jr., dam Lady Richelieu, by Richelieu, for $1145. Mr. Henry also bought, for $800, the bay mare "Metamora," foaled in 1879 by Duke of Orange Jr., dam Viella, by Cassius M. Clay Jr.

"Lady Clay," a bay mare foaled in 1886, by Ancona Clay—Matamora, dam by Duke of Orange for $600.

Another purchase by Mr. Henry, was the brown mare "Namora," foaled in 1879, by Almont Mambrino—Lackey, mare by Blood's Black Hawk, the price paid was $575;

Gilbert Tompkins made the following purchases: "Veronica," bay mare, foaled in 1884 by Alcona-Fontana, dam by Almont, $2500. "Horatio," a bay colt, foaled in 1888 by Alcona-Namora, dam by Almont Dambrino, for $340. Black colt (not named), foaled in 1889 by Whippleton-Namora, dam by Almont Mambrino, for $320.

It Might Be Full of Love.

Lo! plenty ripens round us, yet awakes the cry for bread,
And the millions still are toiling, crushed, and clad in rags, unfed!
While the sunny hills and valleys richly blush with fruit and grain,
But the paupers in the palace rob their toiling fellow-men.
This world is full of beauty, as other worlds above,
And if we did our duty, it might be full of love.

Dear God! what hosts are trampled 'mid this killing crush for gold!
What noble hearts are sapp'd of love, what spirits lose life's hold!
Yet a merry world it might be, opulent for all, and aye,
With its lands that ask for labor, and its wealth that wastes away.
This world is full of beauty, as other worlds above,
And if we did our duty, it might be full of love. —Gerald Massey.

Now Give Attention

To the purification of your blood, for at no season is the body so susceptible to the benefits to be derived from a good medicine, as in March, April and May. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the people's favorite spring medicine. It stands unequalled for purifying the blood, curing scrofula, salt-rheum, etc., regulating the kidneys and liver, repairing nerve tissues, strengthening and invigorating the whole body, as well as checking the progress of acute and chronic disease, and restoring the afflicted parts to a natural, healthy condition. If you have never tried Hood's Sarsaparilla for your "spring medicine," do so this season.
